STUDENT LIFE

Never a Dull Moment! Trying their luck and skill at the DeKalb Fair are Chris White, Kim Cool, and Adam Buttermore.

Never a Dull Moment! Senior Pride is very important as Sarah Musser and Abby Horrum work on decorating the Senior Hall for Homecoming Spirit Week.

Never a Dull Moment! Andy Fike shows that short skirts are "in," at least for the Halloween season, as he directs the Baron Brigade in their traditional costume performance.

ACD, Fair Provide Thrills

Every year DeKalb County has two special events. The Auburn Cord Duesenberg festival happens over Labor Day weekend and celebrates the classic cars made in Auburn. The Free Fall Fair is during the last week of September. Many students manage to attend both of these events.

ACD is a good opportunity for the Athletic Department to raise money by parking cars, taking tickets, and cleaning up. Mr. McKean heads the efforts to make the project successful. All of the sport teams lend a hand in this major money maker.

The Free Fall Fair happens half way through the first grading period, which allows students to unwind. This is also a good opportunity for the 4-H to show off their projects from the preceding year, including livestock, agriculture, and farm management.

There are many rides at the fair to entice the young: Merry-Go-Round, Moon Walk, and the electric cars. For the young at heart are the Spider, the Haunted House, and the Double Ferris Wheel. Thursday evening was the Miss DeKalb contest, which Jaime Mitchell and Shannon O'Dell took part in. Jaime came out victorious.

Other attractions included the parades where the band performed and, of course, the array of different kinds of food like elephant ears, cherry cobbler, and doughnuts. The Free Fall Fair brings many people from the surrounding area to our small town.

Marcus Reese and Kim Page of the Classic Connection step out to center stage to give their duet to the onlooking fair-goers.

Jaime Mitchell (far right) and Shannon O'Dell (4th from right) await the results with the rest of the Miss DeKalb County contestants.

Barons from the athletic department show their pride on the ACD auction grounds after a hard days' work cleaning up and parking cars.

What's the weather like up there? Amanda Thompson and Jenny Wilson see the DeKalb Free Fall Fair from a whole new angle.

Channel 15 representatives proudly ride in the "world famous" Parade of the Classics that was held on ACD weekend.

Six-year 4-H club member Joe Garn proudly presents his cow Freckles, which placed in the dairy judging contest.

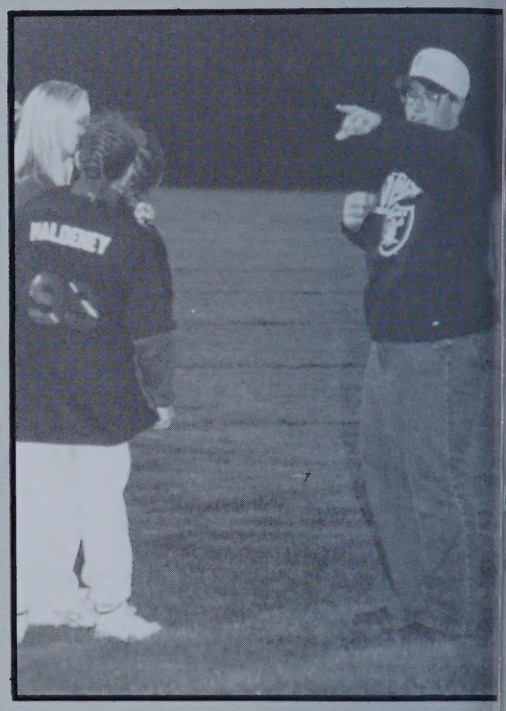
Homecoming Tradition Grows

Expanding the tradition of Homecoming to a full Spirit Week gave the student body an opportunity for competition. The dress up days were Hippie Day, Hillbilly Day, Clash Day, and Red,Black, and White/Paint Your Face Day. The hall decorating contest was won by the seniors. A yelling contest at the Friday Pep Session was won by the juniors. Concluding the Spirit Week competition was a booth decorating contest. After all of the numbers were totaled, the Juniors emerged as the Spirit Week winners.

Traditional Homecoming activities were also continued, including the Powder Puff game and the selection of a King and Queen and their court. In the Powder Puff game, the junior and senior girls battled it out on the field to see who the better flag football players were. The seniors, for another year, turned out to be victorious.

The Homecoming Court was introduced at half-time of the football game. Abby Hege and Kyle Leins represented the freshmen. The sophomores voted for Sheila Rollins and Tyson Cassady to represent them. The Juniors were Trisha Hamilton and Mike Medina. Senior court members were Julie Hummer, Adam Hissong, Sarah Buzzard, and Ryan Carper. Seniors Katie Dove and Jacob Durst were crowned as King and Queen of Homecoming.

All in all, Homecoming Week gave all Barons a chance to get involved in tradition, both old and new.

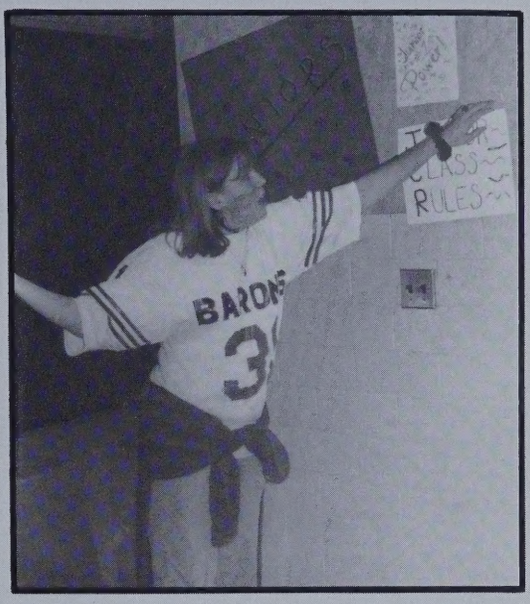


"Now go back out there and move the ball says Senior Powder Puff coach Ben Ellert t some of his talented players.

Getting into the Baron Spirit on Hillbilly Da is Mrs. Tina Voors (center) with her student Taya Kretz and Sarah Schendel.

As Darcy Alexander holds a balloon, Chris Corey gives it a coat of silver paint to add extra sparkle to the seniors' decorated booth.

Homecoming Week saw the upstairs halls decorated by each of the classes. Below, Sarah Fitzgerald works in the junior hall.



Giving their support to the Powder Puff team representing the junior class are Adam Holwerda, Josh Clark, and Patrick Miller.

Red, Black, and White/Paint-Your-Face Day inspired all of these juniors to get dressed up to show their Baron spirit.

Do wives always spring things on their husbands? Annie Spear tells her husband of the approaching visit of her uncle, the Bishop of Lax.

Literally falling for him, Ida the maid (Amanda Bowser) is caught by Cpl. Clive Winton (Paul Kuhlhorst), unaware of her crush.

As Sgt. Towers (David Baldwin) tries to verify the ID's of three "clergymen," Clive Winton attempts to bluff his way through.

Visiting minister Taitem Kretz seems fascinated as he tries to have a conversation with Laura Bard, playing the neighborhood gossip.

'See How They Run' Is Fall Play

'ormer acting partners Paul Kuhlhorst and nnie Spear re-enact a fight from a previous play s they remember the "good old days."

Mistaken identities lead to a number of very funny results in "See How They Run." It was presented as the fall play on Saturday evening, November 12, and Sunday afternoon, November 13, 1994. All members of the cast plus the assistant director, Kim Page, were seniors.

"See How They Run" takes place in rural England following World War II. It is set in the household of the Reverend Lionel Troop (Ryan Myers). His American wife Penelope,a former actress, was played by Annie Spear. Ida, the maid, was Amanda Bowser.

The cast enjoyed working together on the hilarious lines, even when Cory Hall became the Bishop of Laxative instead of the Bishop of Lax. The water on the stage from a leaking roof became a problem for them, especially when it was slippery during the chase scenes.

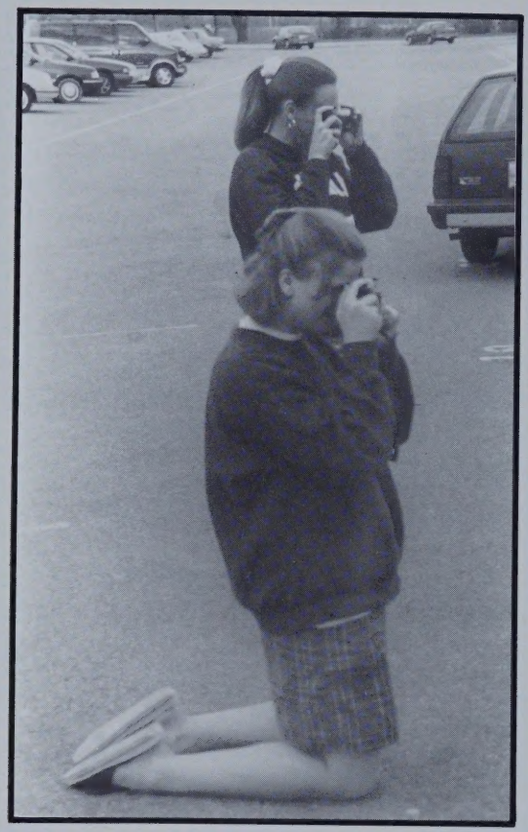
Penelope is visited by a former acting colleague now in the U.S. Army, Cpl. Clive Winton (Paul Kuhlhorst). Her uncle, the Bishop of Lax, and the Rev. Arthur Humphrey (Taitem Kretz), also visit the vicarage.

The neighborhood busy body Miss Skillon (Laura Bard) also drops in and becomes drunk "by accident," so Ida puts her in the closet, but she doesn't always stay there.

Two final cast members who add increased problems are Jeremy Grogg, a Russian spy, and David Balwin as Sgt. Towers, who is searching for him.

As the rest watch in wonder, Paul Kuhlhorst pretends to go along with the plans of Russian spy Jeremy Grogg to conquer the world.

The spiritual side of life is not neglected. These are taking part in the National Day of Prayer. Others join the Wednesday a.m. Bible Club.



Some people have hobbies that fill part of their spare time. These two senior girls seem heavily into the hobby of taking pictures.

Getting together with your friends at a school dance is fun. These girls seem to have lost their dates at the Sadie Hawkins dance.

Spare Time Isn't Wasted Time

Going to games gives everyone a chance to see friends and have fun. These students seem to be having fun at a football game.

What do you do in your spare time? After the school day is finished, many students take the time to do as they please. To fill some of their spare time, many Barons get together with their friends and go out to eat or cruise around town.

Filling spare time can become costly, so many Barons have to get jobs in order to get money to spend on their spare time activities. Of course, once they have a job, their spare time is much more limited. Those without jobs try to conserve their parents' money by inviting friends over to catch a movie on TV.

In addition, the school offers many activities and sports to fill a person's spare time. Some of the sports offered are football, baseball, softball, and tennis. Those who do not participate in the sports themselves often show up in the bleachers as spectators and fans. Club activities give some students spare time activities such as the after-game dances and other club fund raisers.

Many students like to go to concerts. Some of the big ones this year were Pantera, Van Halen, and The Grateful Dead. Other students might go to a movie, with "Forest Gump" and "Dumb and Dumber" being among the most popular.

As can be seen, filling spare time is not hard to do for most of the Barons. "No matter what you do, at least it gets your mind off of school," is the feeling of many.

Waiting for the food to be served at the senior cook-out are Katie Dove, Dawn Strawbridge, Abby Horrum, and Meagan Bechdol.

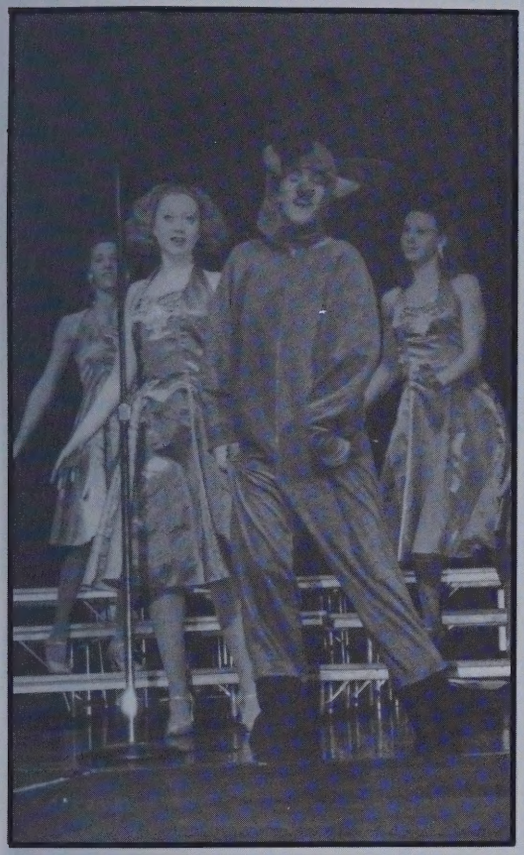
Marching at halftime for the Baron Brigade's traditional Halloween show are B.J. Charbonneau and Julie Leitch.

Such a lovely carnation! Justin Shippy seems astonished that someone remembered him on Valentines Day.

Lending a helping hand, Mario Shipley assists in sorting out the many sacks of food collected for the needy at Christmas time.

Barons Love to Celebrate!

Carol Valdez, in the costume of Rudolph the Red Nosed Reindeer, dances for a Christmas concert presented by the choir.



Holidays at DeKalb High School present the students with special memories. Halloween, Christmas, Veterans' Day, and Valentine's Day are among the most popular. To be honest, the best holidays are the ones we get out of school for.

Whether we get out for a week, a day, or an hour, there is just nothing better than getting out of class(es) to party. Celebrating a holiday is done in various circumstances. Sometimes we have fun, such as taking part in the Show Choir's Christmas performance. Yet other times, we have more serious feelings, i. e. the Veterans' Day convocation.

Here at school, some of the clubs and classes prepare for a holiday. The Health Occupations Education class raised funds by holding a bake sale at Christmas time. The National Honor Society collected canned goods and other foods for the community's poor and homeless.For Valentine's Day, the French Club raised money by selling carnations to the students who wanted to give a little something to their friends and loved ones.

Throughout the year, DHS students and people from the community participated in performances. The veterans of the area celebrated Veterans' Day by participating in a convocation for the students and staff. The show choir and band participated in celebrating some holidays by providing musical entertainment here and there.

Wanna buy some goodies? Dawn Strawbridge and Sara Levy help Mrs. Becky Schmidt with the HOE bake sale during lunch hour.

As students and staff stand, local veterans march into the gym to post the colors to begin the Veterans Day convocation.

Is This Service Really Secret?

Approximately 150 students have a secret. This secret is sometimes not very well kept, not is it intended to be. One hundred fifty is about the number of students who perform student service each semester at DHS. The secret is that they have fun while being of assistance to some aspect of the school's program.

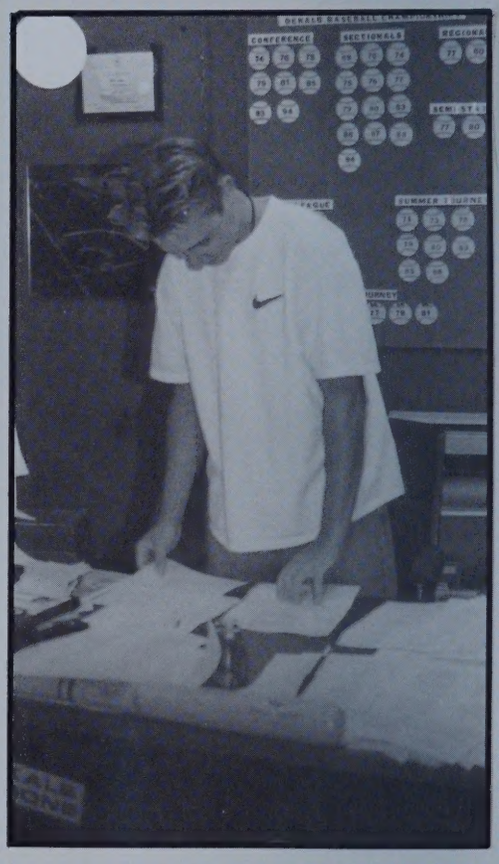
A lot of teachers request student helpers so that they won't get overwhelmed by all of the homework that must be graded and all of the little things that need to be done. These teachers appreciate the work that is done by the student service workers.

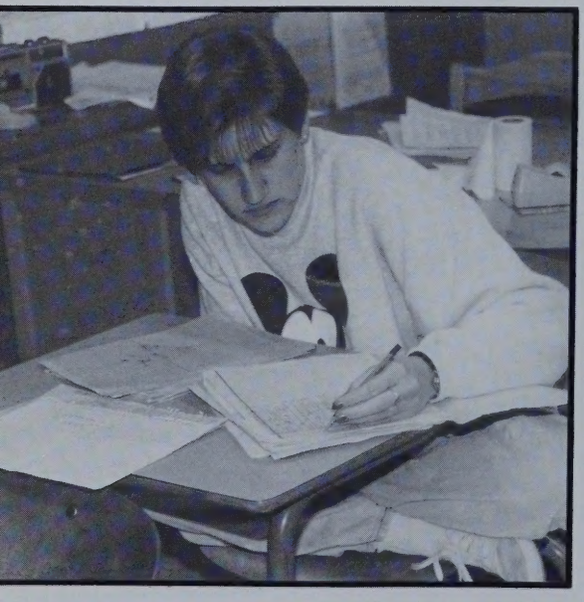
Students in grades ten, eleven, and twelve who have a study hall have the opportunity to become student service workers. Students may work for a classroom teacher, for the media center, for the main office, or even for the guidance office. These students may also assist in many of the vocational classrooms, where they can gain experience which may be of use to them in future jobs or careers.

Students can be asked to put up bulletin boards, grade papers, tutor, collect and file the attendance sheets, or even take passes to unfortunate students.

Being a student service worker enables a person to get out of study hall, the one aspect of student service that is liked the most by some. Many students choose to help teachers out by adding and figuring homework grades.

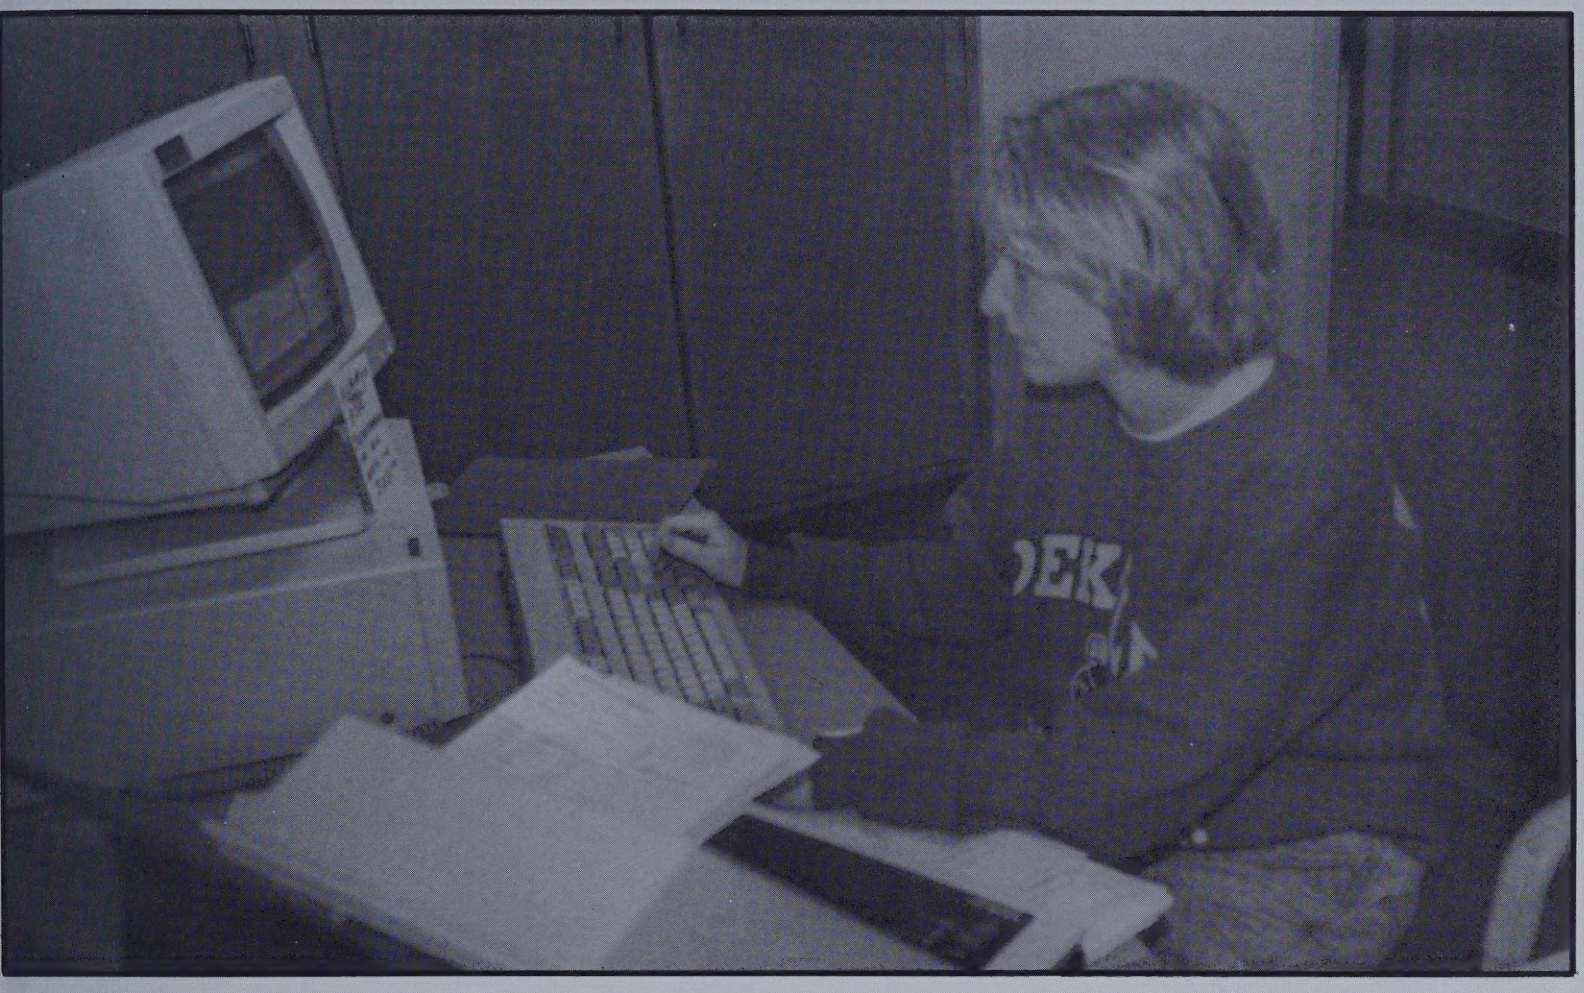
Somebody has to put all of those multi-page tests together. Below, Adam Schaefer assembles one of Mr. Bill Jones' specials.



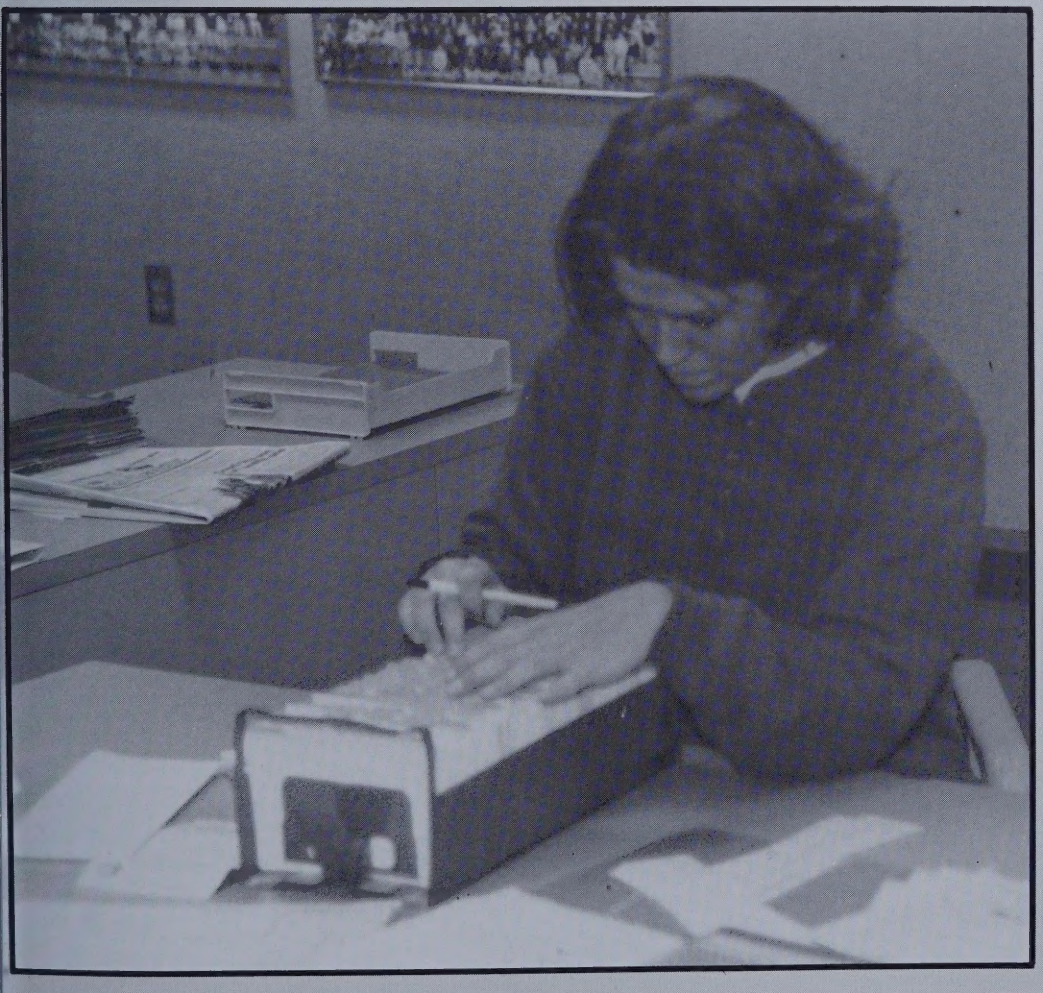


Sitting in a comfortable position, Suzanne Case records the grades from some of Mr. Joe Talley's mathematics students.

Using the hallway as their unique classroom, Jamie Akey works with one of Mrs. Jody Eatinger's students with flash cards.



Working with one of the computers in the main office, Jenni Gaff checks the record of a student whose attendance has been questioned.



The file of student schedules is often consulted by guidance office workers like Sara Milliman so they can take passes to certain students.

Besides picking up the daily attendance sheets each class hour, main office workers like Sasha Hullinger sometimes also check class schedules.

Spending Is Fun; Earning Isn't

Having money is fun, but making it is not. Many students have jobs, and some do not. Some of these jobs are hard while some are easy. But any way you think about it, you have to work to earn money for the fun things in life. Some jobs are not too thrilling, but we have to do them.

Jobs that pay well are hard to find. The many signs saying "Now Hiring" that were posted along the Seventh Street strip indicated jobs available, but most of them did not pay very well. Some students work during the week and spend their earnings on the weekends. Others save for college or something they want. The value of money is really not that important to most students at this point in their lives.

A new source of jobs for students this year was taking part in the new program called Interdisciplinary Cooperative Education or I.C.E. This was a program in which students worked for part of the school day and went to regular classes for the rest of the day. For many of these students the job time extended beyond the regular school hours. Many of these jobs were ones that very well could end up leading to a career. Mrs. Ann Linson was the program's director.

For many of the rest of us, our part-time job was not anything that we would want to spend the rest of our lives doing, unless someone has flipping burgers as their life-long ambition.

Sometimes working is a drag, but it goes f when you're with a friend. Here, Leisa Ma and Sara Milliman work at Hardee's.

Learning all of the ins and outs of tool and work in his job at Rieke Corporation in Au is I.C.E. student Jason Mann.

Waiting for the next customer to come along, Tammy Freeman is ready to help them find what they're looking for at On Cue.

Using his skills at welding, Andy Case works at Fabtron in Auburn for his job in the Interdisciplinary Cooperative Education program.

Break Welcomed in Spring

As it came to that time of the year, people were anxious for the long cold winter to end. Many were hoping that, at the very least, the cold weather and snow would stay away during the week of Spring Break from March 18 through March 26.

Throughout the year, most people look forward to Spring Break. Many make arrangements to leave town and find a little bit warmer spot to visit. This year many found Florida to be the most popular get-away spot. They spent a life-long week under the hot sun on sandy beaches. However, Florida was not the only place students went. Some decided to try something different, such as Nebraska or Missouri.

Some of the not-so-lucky students didn't get to pack their bags and leave town. They just stayed home to catch up on their sleep, spend time with their friends, or just lay back and enjoy the week-long vacation. There is a rumor that one or two students worked on class projects during the break.

Other students decided to go out and make a little extra cash, while some had daily practices for spring sports. "Practice makes perfect, "say some of the Barons. "At least we had fun at what we did and got away from the long hard days at school." As can be seen, no matter how the students spent Spring Break, they had fun and just got to get away from school for a while.

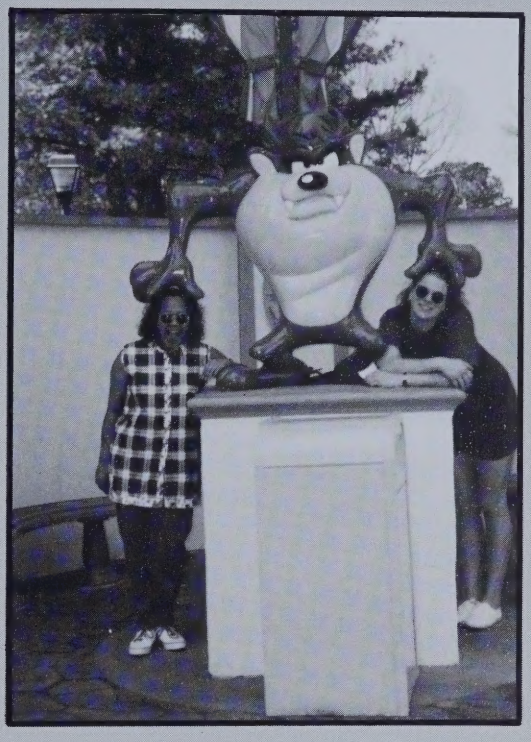
A Spring Break trip not escaping the cold weather is enjoyed by Carrie Behrman as she visits the ski slopes at Park City, Utah.

With the palm trees of St. Augustine above them are Katie Turner, Erin Carpenter, Valerie Hurni, and Shannon O'Dell.

These two guys (Paul Wrona and Ben Seigel) find an empty spot on Clearwater, Florida's beach to soak up some rays.

The lure of the sea seems to have attracted Tyson Handshoe, Bob Long, Jason Wilson, and Mitch Slone to Clearwater's waterfront.

During their visit to Six Flags in Atlanta, Georgia, Dee Somkit and Julie Conrad seem to be having a problem with one of the characters.



The sandy beaches of Myrtle Beach, South Carolina, beckoned to Amanda Brammer and Jaymee Brockhaus for their Spring Break trip.

Going not so far away for a break are Kim Franks, Kelly Pinkerton, Steph Rutter, and Pualani Hamman at Pokagon State Park.

Decisions, Decisions, Decisions

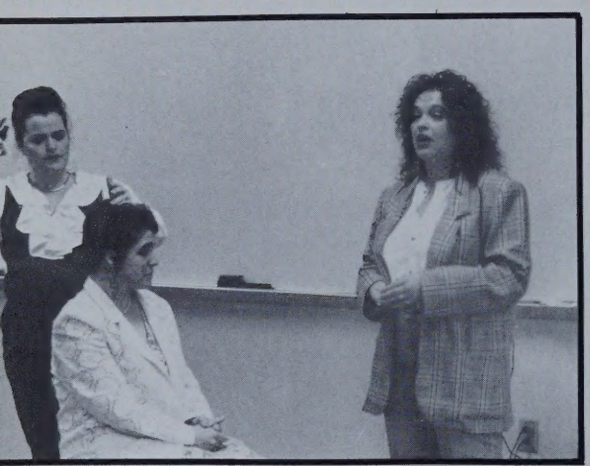
What do you plan to do with the rest of your life? What job or career are you interested in, or are you really aware of what all of the many possibilities are? These are some of the questions that two separate events were intended to help answer in the minds of the students.

For the first time ever, DHS hosted a Job Fair. It consisted of the surrounding area's employment possibilities. Both the main gym and the auxiliary gym held booths from construction companies, fast food restaurants, manufacturing companies, banks, and even military branches, all looking for able bodies seeking employment.

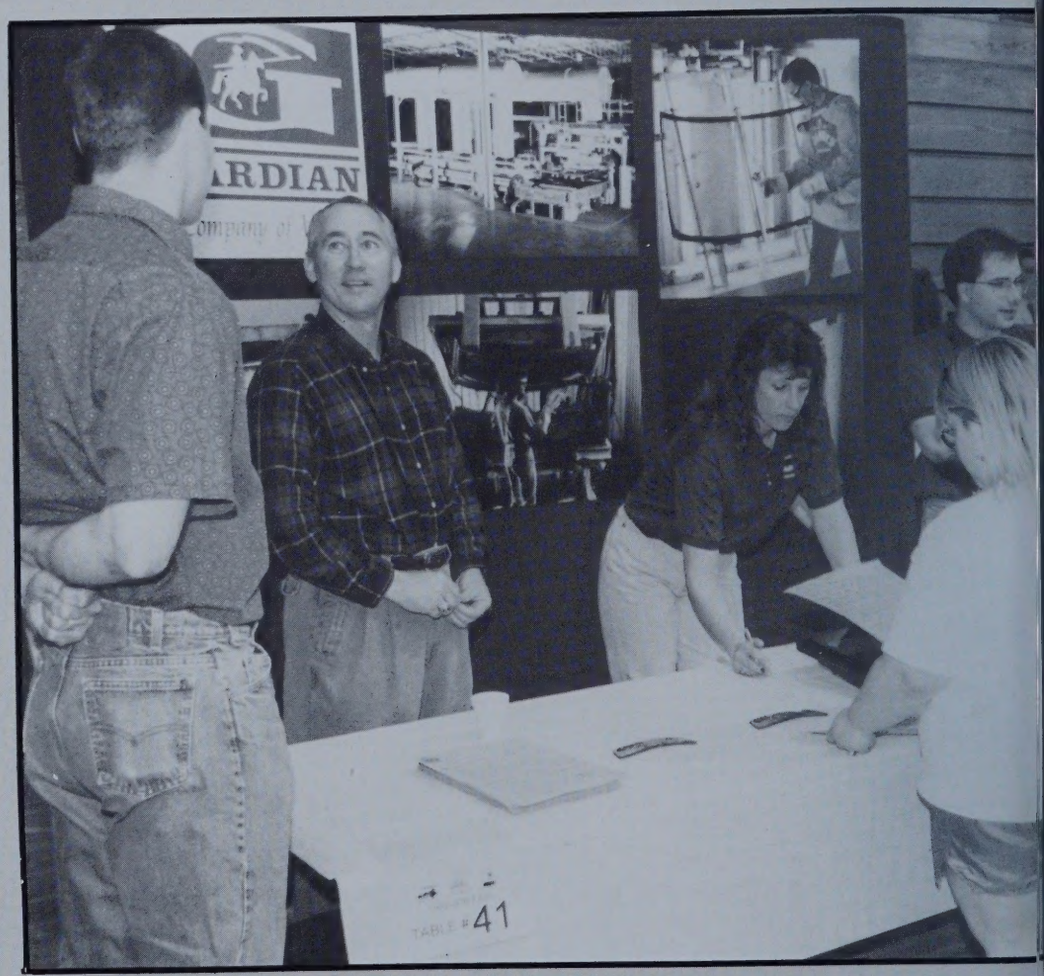
The Job Fair was visited not only by DHS students and faculty but also by those from Garrett and Eastside. We were all able to talk with representatives of the companies. Teachers passed out questionnaires that students could fill out to remember specific aspects of each place of employment that the students chose to get information about.

For Career Day faculty members invited persons representing various careers to talk and interact with us. A wide variety of careers was presented: insurance salesmen and law enforcement officers; cosmetics salespersons and locksmiths; military personnel and accountants-- all told the good and bad points of their careers. Career Day enabled students to find out more information about careers to help them choose their future careers more wisely.

Sgt. David Kelley of the Noble County Sheriff's Department talks to students in Mrs. Michelle Helmkamp's class about law enforcement.

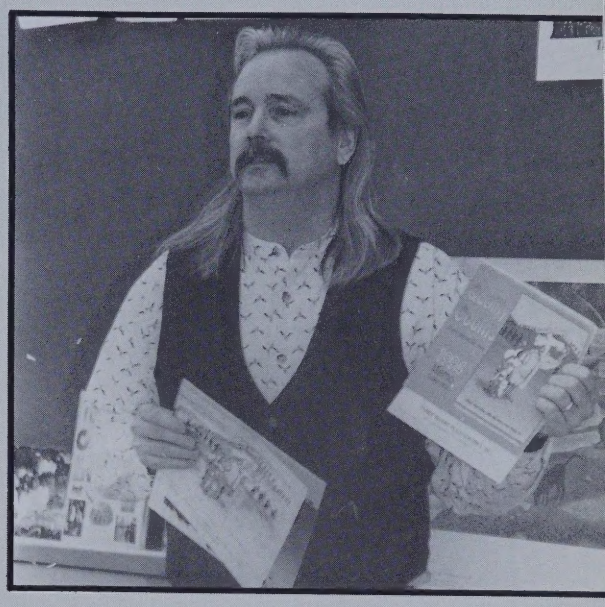


Sarah Coleman acts as a model as these two local cosmetologists explain aspects of their job to students in Mrs. Cindy Noye's class.



What is it like to work at Guardian Industries? This display and representatives from the company try to answer students' questions.

With their survey forms in hand, these girls check in with Mr. Denny Winebrenner and a friend he brought along from DeKalb Memorial.



What are the possibilities of a career in art? Renaissance Publishing's graphic artist explains his job to Mrs. Andrea VanHorne's class.

One of the most popular booths at the Job Fair represented the U.S. Army. Here, students check out the literature and hand-outs available.

"All aboard!" Following the Grand March in the gym, prom-going couples line up to ride the trolley across the parking lot (right).

Prom: 'Hold on to the Night'

Enjoying their special dance to the prom theme "Hold on to the Night" are the King and Queen, David Hefty and Angie Schaab.

"Hold on to the Night" was the theme for the Junior-Senior Prom held on Saturday, May 6. As the flowers were being picked up, girls were working on their hair, nails, and make-up, guys were worrying if their tuxes would fit...they all wanted to look their best for the big night. After everyone was ready, family and friends gathered around with their cameras taking tons of pictures.

Following a meal, usually at a restaurant in Ft. Wayne, the couples arrived at the high school, where the Grand March took place. The bleachers were filled as the names of the couples were announced one by one and they walked their way along the red carpet across the gym floor. Then it was back outside and over to the middle school, where the actual prom was to begin.

Angie Schaab and David Hefty were the royalty of the evening. Dancing to popular tunes of the past and present, the couples enjoyed the evening. Most had their pictures taken again, this time by a professional photographer.

Many of the couples continued to enjoy the evening by attending after-prom sponsored by SADD. There was food, gambling, and just plain old fun, which went on until the early morning light. After that, some brave souls boarded buses that took them to King's Island, not returning until late Sunday evening, making prom weekend an event that they will never forget.

The devil stands by as his plan has failed and a faithful Joe Boyd (Mark Myers) has returned home to his wife (Annie Spear).

No Baseball Strike at DHS

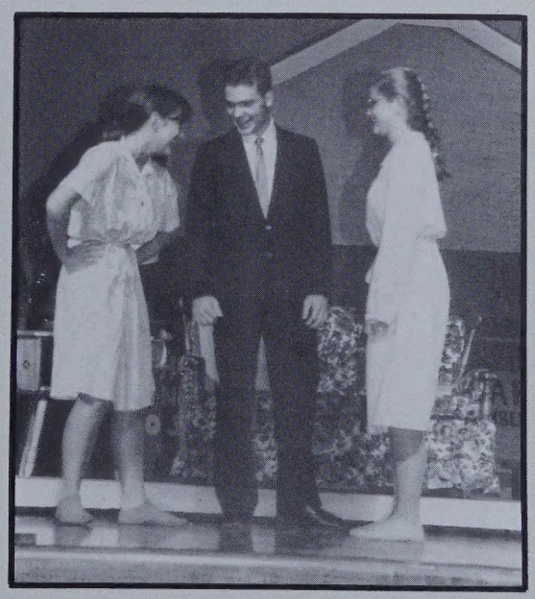
This was the year that the major league baseball players went on strike and there was no World Series, but there was a different kind of baseball problem on the stage of the auditorium for the production of the musical "Damn Yankees." Three performances were given on the weekend of May 12.

Joe Boyd was a long-suffering fan of the Washington Senators, who just couldn't stand to see the New York Yankees win. boyd made a deal with the devil to sell his soul to play baseball for the Senators. The devil changed him into Joe Hardy, an outstanding player who could put Mickey Mantle to shame. Joe inspired the Senators by teaching them "You've gotta have heart."

Hardy had his own heart problem though--he missed his faithful wife. He could have changed back into couch potato Joe Boyd and go home if he wanted. The devil gave him up until the last day of the season to decide. The devil played hardball by having the penant race come down to the final game with their long-time rivals, the Yankees.

The devil made Hardy's choice even harder by introducing him to Lola to get his mind off his wife. The Senators' miracle season and Joe's marriage rode on the swing of the bat.

"Damn Yankees" was directed by Kent and Shelley Johnson. Heather Marhenke was the stage manager, and Richard Karkosky directed the pit band.



The Miller sisters (Shannon O'Dell and Tara Epple) seem thrilled to death to make the acquaintance of Joe Hardy.

Lola (Laura Bard) is introduced to Joe Hardy (Ryan Myers) by the devil (Paul Kuhlhorst) in a futile attempt to corrupt him.

Fine Arts Displays Talents

Fine Arts Weekend involved many activities from the Art Show to the performace of the play "Damn Yankees."

On Friday May 12, the Art Show was visited by some elementary students from various schools in the district. These students had a questionnaire to complete. They completed it by looking at all the different work on display. The young potential artists had the chance to look at jewelry, pottery, paintings, and photography as well as various craft items.

After these students finished, they had the chance to view a ceramics demonstration put on by Pualani Hamman and Erica Moore. After the demonstration, two young volunteers got a chance to try throwing on the wheel themselves.

This years' show was different because it allowed viewers to gaze at a large number of photographs. These pictures were taken by Photography I, and Advanced Photography students. The Advanced Photography students had the chance to display their work on boards, so that their peers and family members could view their work.

This busy weekend was wrapped up on Sunday, when the students returned to remove their work and clean up the gym. The Art Show was open to the public, so that members of the community could view the art work on display. After all was said and done, it was a well put together show.

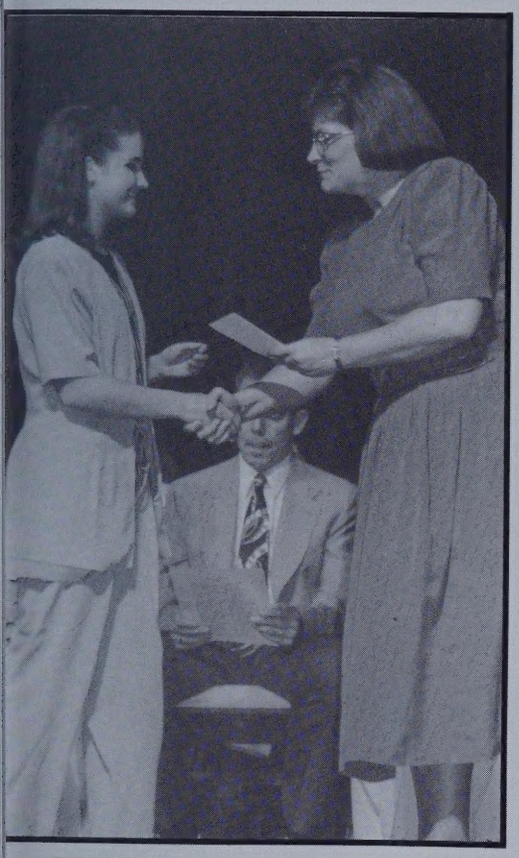
Senior Achievements Honored



Accepting the Applied Science Scholarship sponsored by the Auburn Foundry from Mrs. Linda Baysinger is Lindsey Dunn.

On the evening of May 15, the auditorium played host to dozens of anxious seniors and their parents and friends--anxious in anticipation of finding out whether Mrs. Chris Likens would read their name when she announced the winners of the many scholarships and other awards to be distributed that evening.

Those who were honored as outstanding seniors in the school's academic departments were as follows: Lori Schrimshaw, Art; Sarah Buzzard, Business; Brad Weber, English; Carrie Johnson, Foreign Language; Matt Meyer, Industrial Arts; Lindsey Dunn, Mathematics; Tricia Hertzel, Music; David Hefty, Science; Angie Schaab, Social Studies; and Robert Long, Vocational Arts.

Seniors named as four-year honor students were Rebecca Albert, Aaron Albright, Holly Albright, Melinda Alguire, Scott Armstrong, Laura Bard, Lisa Barry, Cherrie Baysinger, Shallon Bush, Amy Conrad, Julie Conrad, Adam Cunningham, Katrina Dove, Lindsey Dunn, Jacob Durst, Benjamin Ellert, Stephanie Foster, Nathan Gaier, Jason Haiflich, Holly Harris, David Hefty, Adam Hissong, and Abigail Horrom.

Also honored were Carrie Johnson, Robert Jones, Tracey Kaduk, Janet Kiefer, Robert Long, Heather Marhenke, Andrea Mettert, Jaime Mitchell, Chris Opper, Josh Opper, Richard Pfister, Dawn Rieke, Angela Schaab, Adam Schaefer, Alisha Schiffli, Scott Schwab, Aris Swank, Ryan Tuttle, Brad Weber, Jason Wilson, Neil Woodruff, and Paul Wrona.

Entertainment in the auditorium after the Senior Breakfast in the Commons was Trooper Jeff House, who proved that cops can sing, too.

One thing that the Class of 1995 was good at was eating. Here, some Senior guys line up for the food at the Senior Breakfast.

May Keeps Seniors Occupied

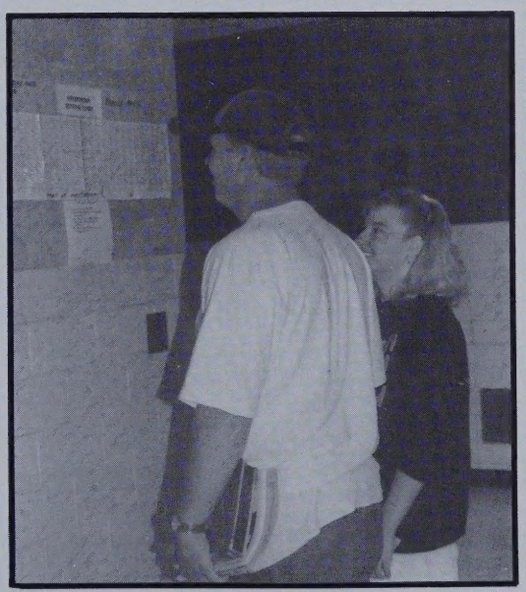
Featured speaker at the Senior Dinner/Dance at Greenhurst is Shelly Yoder, former Miss Indiana, who shared an inspirational message.

As the year drew to an end, the Class of 1995 was rather busy. The month of May made the seniors get their act together and get ready for the big day!

To celebrate, the first week of May saw the senior parents hosting the Senior cookout. The following weeks were filled with seniors exchanging pictures, namecards, and open house invitations. Most Seniors got their announcements in the mail in May, but in order to do so, some had to use their traditional "Senior Skip Day!"

On May 25, the Seniors were invited to a breakfast hosted by the Auburn Ministerial Association. If nothing else, it gave them some food and an excuse to miss a couple of classes. Later that same day, the Seniors were invited to a dinner and dance at Greenhurst Country Club. They heard Shelly Yoder, former Miss Indiana, speak about the things she wished she'd known when she was a Senior. After dinner the seniors heard the final results of the Senior Poll and a series of "Do You Remember" questions from Jer Parker and Adam Hissong.

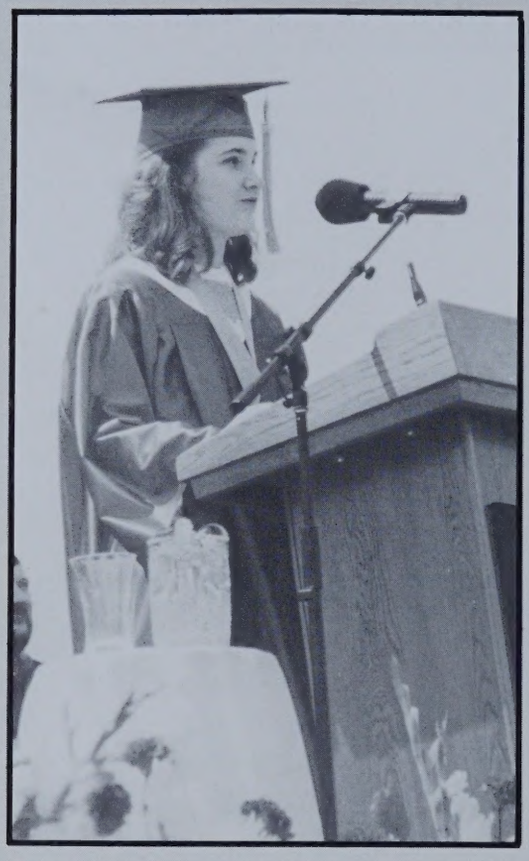
The final week of May was filled with class members arranging for June 4. They had already looked at the posted seating charts and made sure their names were spelled correctly. They had also picked up their caps and gowns and tried them on for size. By the end of May, the Class of 1995 was good and ready for their future lives.



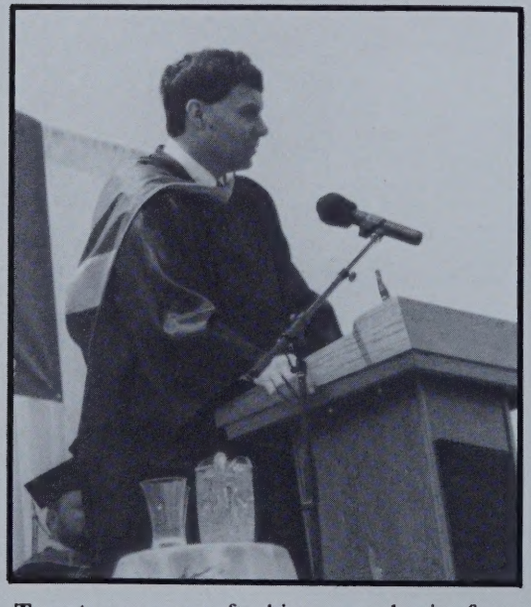
Who am I going to march with at graduation? Tom Eulitt and April Kuhlman check the chart to see who their partners will be.

Gathering around the dance floor in order to see better, the Seniors are treated to the sounds of Birds Calling Parker, a popular musical group.

Blending their voices together once again, Taitem Kretz and Sarah Buzzard perform the class song, "Friends," for the audience.

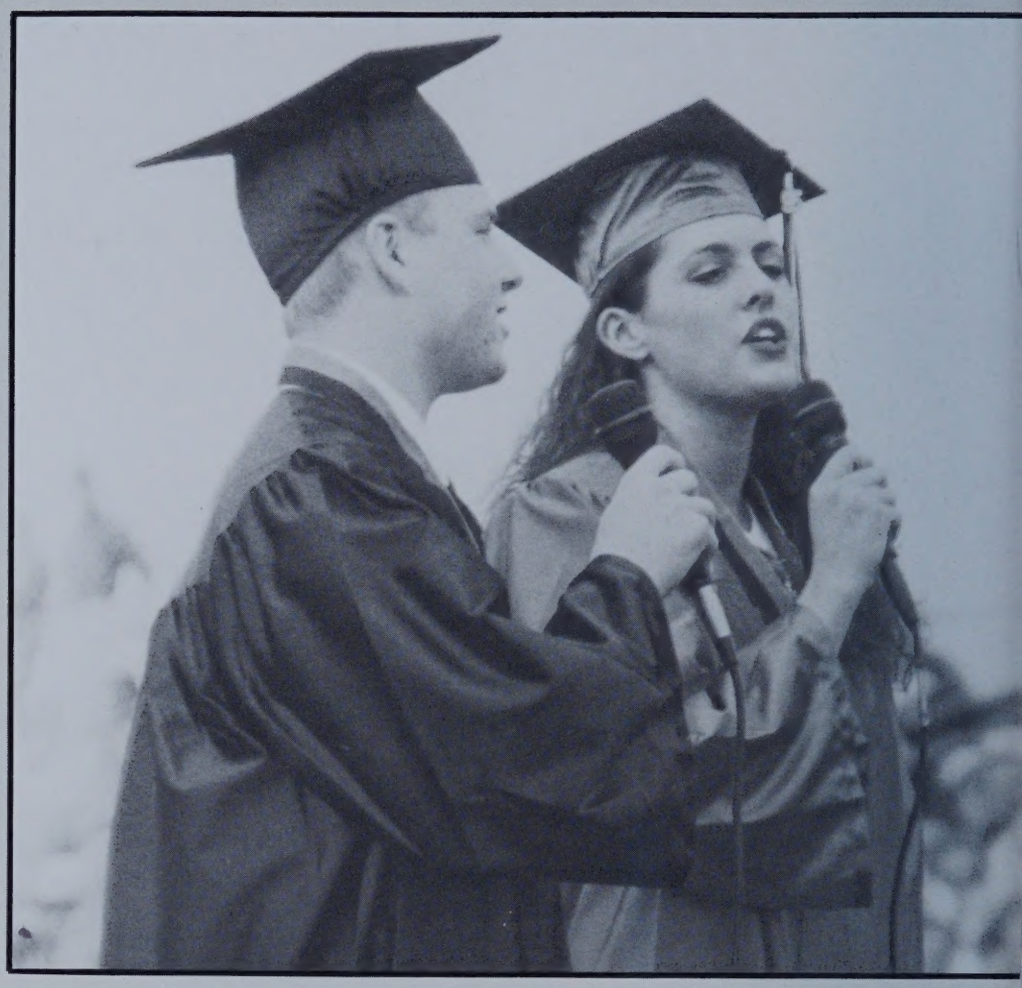


Tops in the Class of 1995, Lindsey Dunn has the job of introducing the Alumni Speaker for the Commencement ceremony.

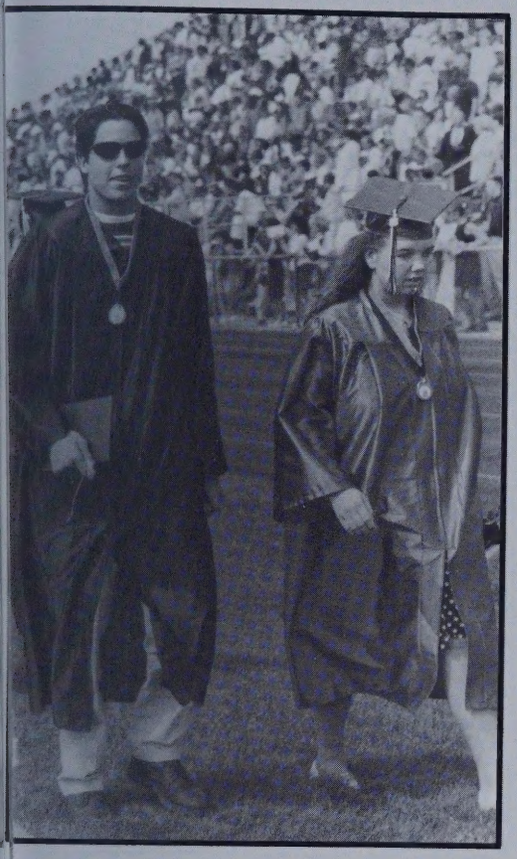


Twenty-one years after his own graduation from DHS, Marshall Grate tells the graduates about what might lie ahead for them.

Helped across the stage by Damian Dunn, Joel Pfister accepts his diploma from Mrs. Nancy McNabb, assisted by Dr. Keith Perry.



Twenty-eighth Class Graduates



Look out world! Here they come! Logan Kempf and Amanda Grandstaff quickly march off of the field after the ceremony is over.

After the last final exam was taken and the last financial obligation was paid, there was only one thing remaining for the Class of 1995 to do: graduate! The big day was Sunday, June 4.

Promptly at 2:00 p.m., the band struck up the familiar strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" and the school officials and graduating seniors filed onto Cecil E. Young Field for the Commencement ceremonies. The weather was nearly perfect, although perhaps a bit warm for the persons wearing robes.

After Angie Schaab welcomed everyone, Carrie Johnson introduced the 33 seniors who had earned the Academic Honor Diploma and David Hefty delivered the Intention. After the band played "On Wings of Eagles," Lindsey Dunn introduced 1974 graduate Marshall Grate, the Alumni Speaker.

After the diplomas were awarded, Sarah Buzzard and Taitem Kretz sang the Senior song "Friends" and Jaime Mitchell said Farewell on behalf of her classmates.

Superintendent Dr. Keith Perry officially declared the seniors graduated and several of the four-cornered hats sailed into the air. As the combined bands played the recessional, the new alumni left the field.

The officials' stand was decorated with the class motto by Amanda Pancake: "The longing of the past holds us back, the love of the present keeps us here, but the vision of the future moves us forward."

The graduating class lines up one row at a time to await their turns to march across the stage to receive that long-awaited diploma.

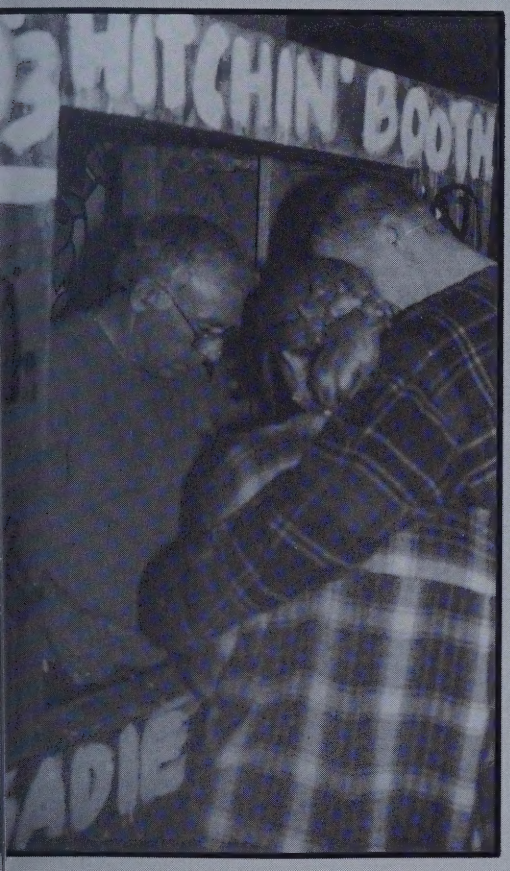
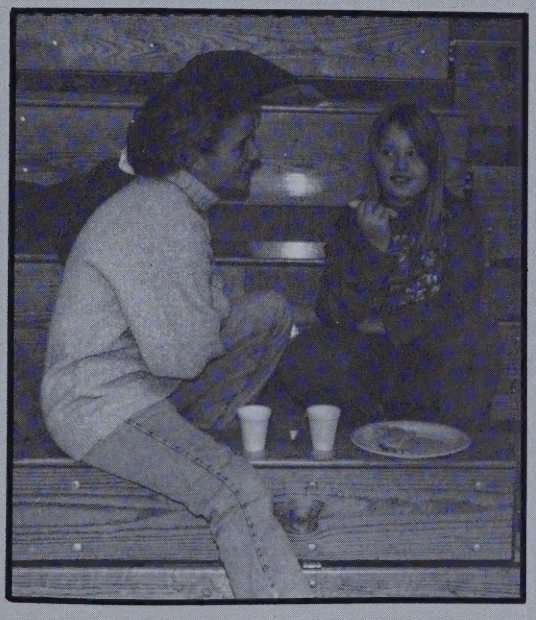
Student Council---

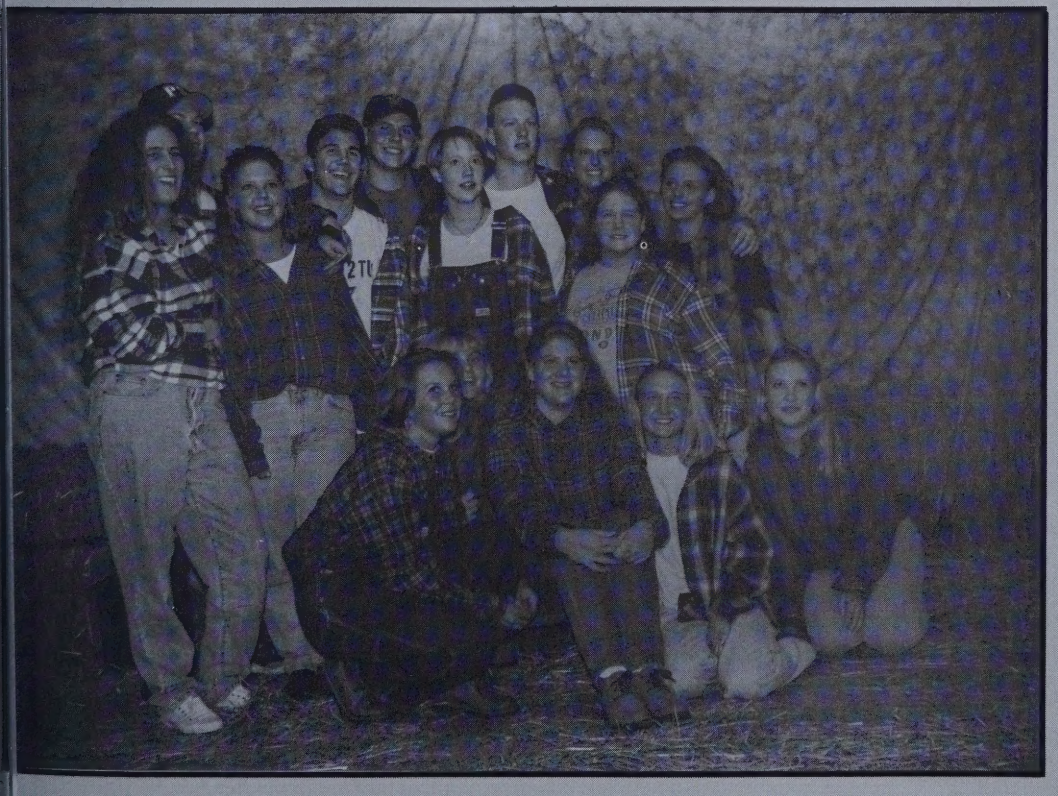
Activities Promote School Environment



The Sadie Hawkins Dance is a traditional Council activity where "gettin' hitched" is also traditional, as Mr. Van Smith does the honors.

Relaxing on the bleachers after having some lunch and entertainment are Student Council President Sarah Musser and her Adopt-a-Kid.





Another tradition at the Sadie Hawkins Dance is getting your picture taken. This large group must have wanted to cut their expenses!

The Student Council is made up of a teriffic group of people who promote a good school environment. Consisting of students elected by their classmates to represent them on the Council in addition to the class officers, the Student Council's activities are directed by its officers, who are elected by the entire student body.

The Council's stated purpose is to develop attitudes of, and practices in good citizenship; promote harmonious relations throughout the school;and improve school morale. It also is to advise in the management of the school, provide a forum of student expression; and provide orderly direction of school activities.

The Student Council had several activities that they worked on this year. In the fall they were responsible for expanding Homecoming to be a full "Spirit Week." In the spring they planned Baron Field Day. They collected Caring and Sharing funds for Riley Hospital in Indianapolis.

Adopt-a-Kid was also under the sponsorship of the Student Council. In this activity Council members as well as other students take on a student from one of the elementary schools to help. They visit the elementary school for lunch once, and the kid visits the high school twice. Other activities are optional.

Faculty sponsors of the Student Council were Mrs. Jeni Hirschy and Ms. Jan McCullough.

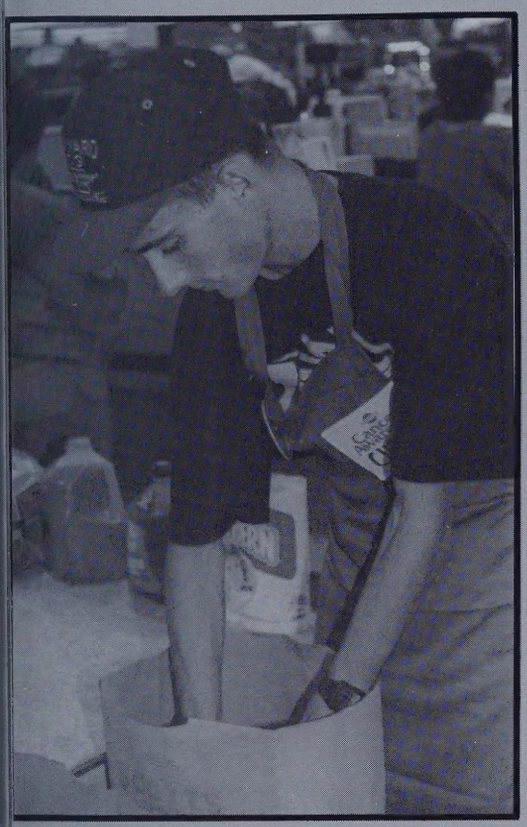
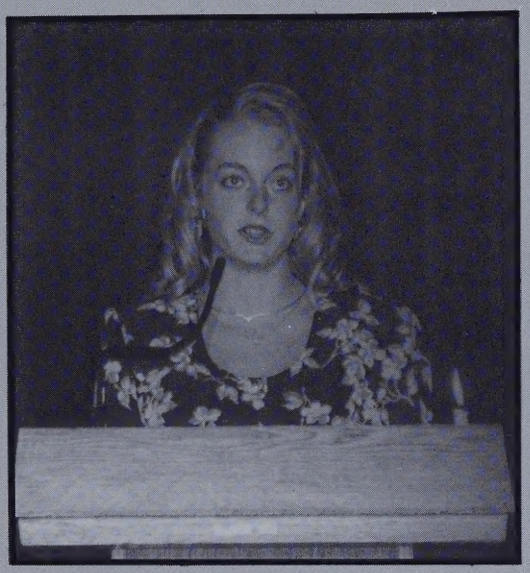
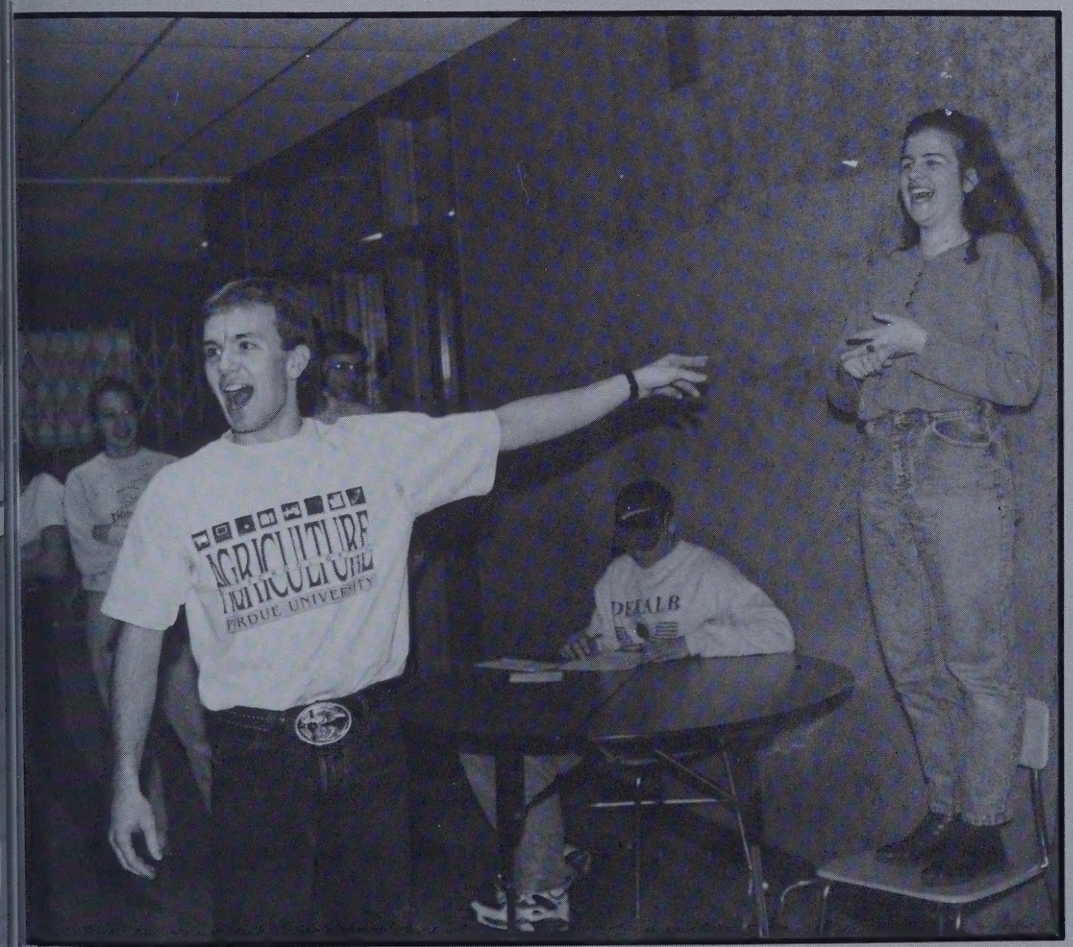
Christmas Projects Highlight Year



As part of the NHS quality of service, Chris Opper (left) helps out on Cancer Awareness Day at Scotts Foods.

New members of the National Honor Society were inducted in the fall. Below, Lisa Jurkiewicz presents her part in the ceremony.





Helping others was one of the major purposes of both the National Honor Society and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Both groups had a major philanthropic project at Christmas time.

The National Honor Society coordinated the collection of canned food. With the motivation of prizes for the homerooms bringing in the most food, DHS responded in the true spirit of the holidays. NHS members also provided a tutoring service and had several fund raising activities in order to provide scholarships.

NHS officers were Abigail Horrom and Robert Long, Co-Presidents; and Amy Conrad and Paul Wrona, Co-Secretaries. They assisted sponsor Mrs. Tita Gordon in promoting character, scholarship, leadership, and service, the four qualities of the NHS.

The Christmas season was when the FCA did its biggest project. They adopted a family from the Red Cross and purchased various items for them including clothing, games and toys, a stocking, and gift certificates for the grocery store and movie theater. Many members of the club had a lot of fun shopping for the family.

FCA's major fund raiser was selling raffle tickets at football and basketball games for an autographed ball. Meetings were held at homes of members. Meetings usually consisted of a game, a lesson, and food and fellowship. A mega-movie marathon at the home of sponsor Mr. Rod Williams ended after "The Ten Commandments" was over, which was sooner than originally planned.

"What is your bid?" asks David Hefty as Sarah Hoff is on the block at the National Honor Society date auction.

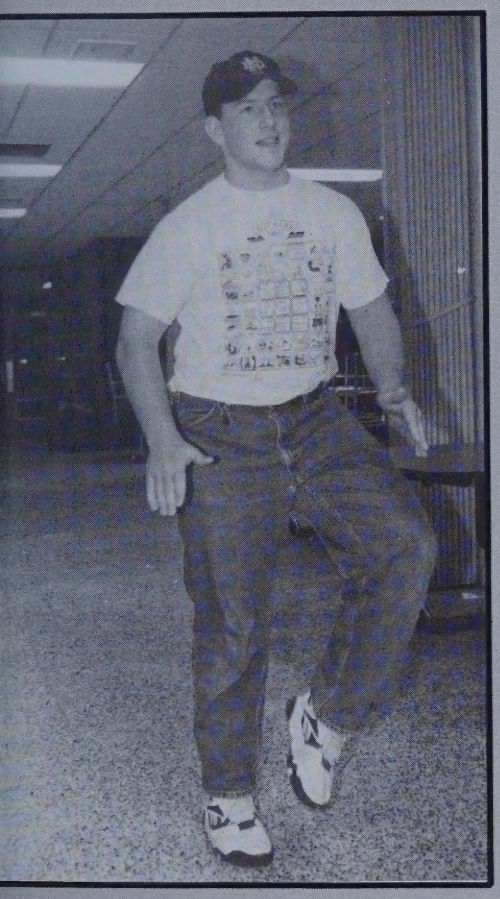
German Club • Language Banquet--

Having Fun While Sharing Cultures



Showing all of the agility and grace of an athlete, Jeremy Sassanella does a shoe-slapping dance to entertain at the Foreign Language Banquet.

German Club members Lesa Peitzman, Rachel Marquardt, and Sheila Purvis show that maybe German chickens really do sound different.

Is it a German joke that April Marshall and Erin Carpenter are sharing at the banquet? French Club member Teresa Glick isn't sure.

To complement classroom work and enrich students' awareness of the German culture in German-speaking countries is the purpose of the German Club, sponsored by Mr. Greg Vick, assisted by Mrs. Tina Voors.

Scholarships are awarded to graduating German students, so funds must be raised. German Club members sold football and baseball concessions, checked coats at basketball games, and sponsored an after-game dance.

The German Club was also a co-sponsor of the DHS-DMS faculty basketball all-star game in February. This year the game was at the middle school. In late July of 1994 twenty-five German students traveled in Europe for ten days.

Officers of the German Club were Logan Kempf, President; Adam Cunningham, Vice-president; Julie Hummer, Secretary; and Jenny Barnett, Treasurer.

The Foreign Language Banquet, held on March 6, gave members of all three language clubs a chance to get together and share cultures. Members of each club brought food related to that culture. It didn't take long for the French desserts to disappear. Following the meal, demonstrations were given of various dances native to the cultures related to the three languages involved: French, Spanish, and German.

Money Earned Provides Scholarships

If you're a student of French or Spanish, chances are that you'll be encouraged to join the club related to that language.

The French Club was sponsored by Mrs. Kathy Pfister. Besides heightening aareness of French culture, they earned money for French scholarships. Their two main money-making projects were candy sales and carnation sales for Valentines Day.

Social events were also big for the French Club. They had a Mardi Gras party, a Christmas Party, dinner at La Bagatelle, as well as the Foreign Language Banquet. In June of 1994 several members went to France and England.

Officers of French Club were Cherrie Baysinger, President; Stephanie Foster, Vice-president; and Teresa Glick, Secretary-Treasurer.

Sponsored by Mrs. Michelle Helmkamp, the Spanish Club also raised money for scholarships. Their fund raisers included football concessions and selling Guatemalan worry dolls and friendship bracelets.

The Spanish Club also got social at Don Pablo's for Christmas and at an awards banquet, besides the Foreign Language Banquet. In February, the club had its first movie night when they watched an Hispanic film and snacked on various goodies.

Officers of Spanish Club were Adam Buttermore, President; Derek Markley, Vice-president, Kris King, Secretary; and Andrea Mettert, Treasurer.

A fund raiser for the French Club was selling carnations. Right, Heather Guinn pauses in the hall as she is making flower deliveries.

"We wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year," say members of the Spanish Club as they carol at Betz Nursing Home.

Cori Huff and LouAnn Woolever show off the friendship bracelet and worry doll that the Spanish Club has for sale.

Students Against Driving Drunk--

After-Prom Gives Safe Alternative

Concern for their fellow students is the chief motivating factor for Barons joining Students Against Driving Drunk, better known as SADD. The activities of the group include some to increase awareness of this problem as well as to raise funds to sponsor the after-prom activities at the school.

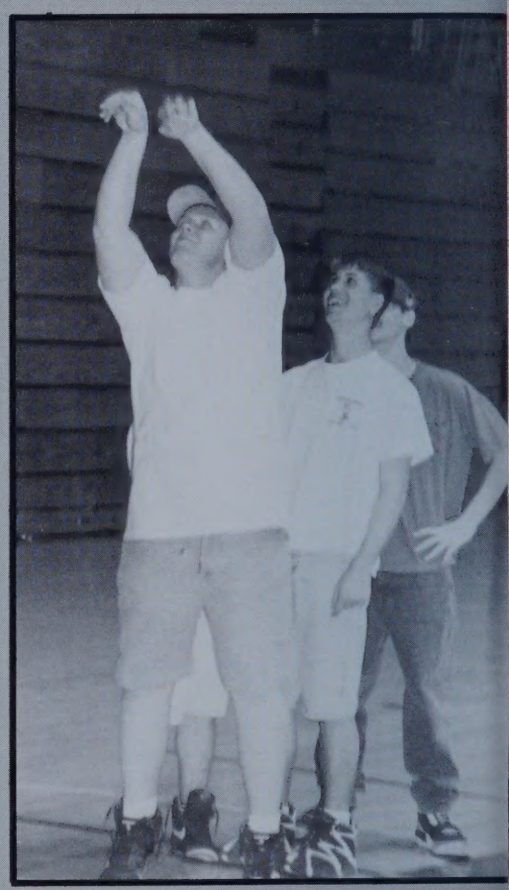
Fund raisers included selling concessions at a football game and sponsoring a dance. During November and December, SADD members could be found near the Dairy Queen in Auburn selling fresh Christmas trees. A bowl-a-thon was also held to collect pledges as an additional fund raiser.

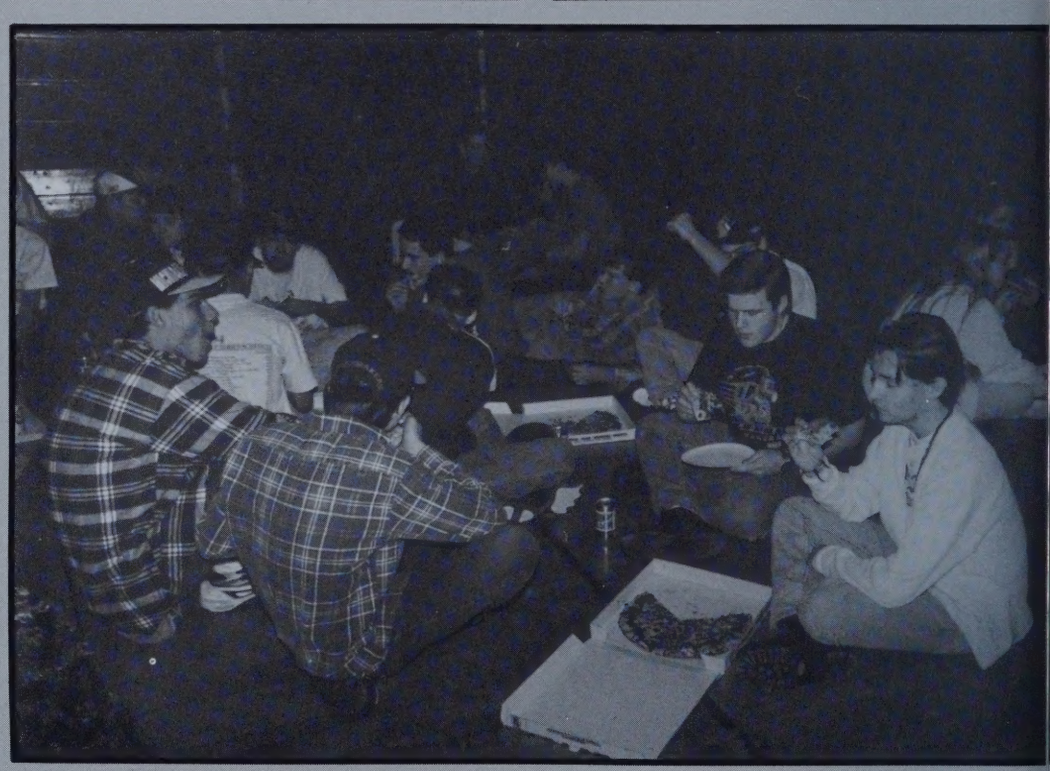
All of these funds plus donations from the community helped sponsor the successful after-prom activities and the bus trip to Kings Island on Sunday after the prom. The after-prom featured food (quickly devoured by hungry students), games of chance, a moon walk, basketball, and movies including "Forest Gump." The usually popular dunk tank could not be used because the one the company sent would not fit through the door.

Officers of SADD were Julie Conrad, President; Chris Opper, Vice-president; and Rachel Bailey, Secretary. The sponsor was Mrs. Tita Gordon.

Getting in a little basketball shooting practice before the real game begins are Tom Eulitt, Danny Dove, and two unidentified persons.

Mr. Todd Howard watches as several students take part in the fun activity of bouncing in the moon walk at the SADD after-prom.





Enjoying some of the fruits of their labor, SADD members who helped to sell Christmas trees are treated to a pizza party.

"With Christmas tree sales, the Bowlathon, and After-Prom committees, there is never a dull moment! And when all the work is done, you can usually expect a pizza party as a reward!"

Groups Have One Goal In Mind

Letterwinners and the Ski Club are two organizations that each has mainly one purpose for its existence.

The Ski Club's only objective is to provide lower cost skiing to DHS students. They are able to purchase a season pass to the Timber Ridge Ski Resort. Then every Thursday when the conditions are right, everyone climbs onto two school buses for the trip to Michigan. Sometimes the buses would stop for a snack break on the way home. Casualties for the season included one broken arm and two mild concussions.

Ski Club's officers were David Hefty, President; Christen Coulon, Vice-president; and Shelly Damstra, Secretary. The sponsor was Mr. Don Myers.

Letterwinners serves as a supplementary arm of the athletic department. To raise funds, the group sells concessions at boys and girls basketball games. Members earn participation points in order to earn shirts, patches, and dinners.

Funds earned by Letterwinners were used for the ongoing project of hanging athletic pictures in the hallways. They also purchased a strip mat for gymnastics and a camera/VCR for team use.

Letterwinner officers were Meagan Bechdol, President; Adam Holwerda, Vice-president; and Teresa Glick, Secretary-Treasurer. It was sponsored by Athletic Director Mr. Dick McKean.

Not getting enough practice during the year, Ski Club member Lori Schrimshaw visits Utah for some more skiing during Spring Break.

With the prices posted behind them, Teres Glick, Somer Anderson, and Tami Roark (fa below) wait for their next hungry customer.

Extemp speakers must do research so that they'll be informed. Here, Alisha Schiffli and Aaron Albright are hitting the books.

The Speech Team and Culture Shock are both groups that deal with the use of language. Culture Shock was formerly known as the Literary Club.

The purpose of Culture Shock is to promote both cultural and literacy awareness while developing friendships. In order to earn money for scholarships, they sold posters and candy. The Book Nook, where students could purchase paperback books, was also a Culture Shock fund raiser. The group attended some plays in the area and served refreshments for Senior Awards night.

A special project this year was the assembling of literacy kits for the homeless shelter. These kits contained such things as books, puzzles, games, and flash cards.

Culture Shock officers were Amanda Holben, President; Heidi Wells, Vice-President; Lexi Shankster, Secretary, Andy VerHage, Treasurer; Jamie Staley, Book Nook Manager; and Marissa Slone, Book Nook Asst. Manager. Sponsors were Mrs. Cindy Ziebell and Mrs. Jan Pence.

The twenty-six members of the Speech Team had a nearly full year of competition, attending a total of 17 meets. They also hosted an Invitational--DHS's first in four years--attended by approximately 300 students from 18 schools. The Speech Team placed third in the NHC meet and second in the Sectional. Twenty-three entries qualified at the Sectional to advance to the Regional.

The head coach of the Speech Team was Mr. Jeff Malcolm, assisted by Mrs. Gay Kirkton and Mrs. Jan Krebs.

Art Club • FHA • FEA---

Activity Comes In All Sizes

Just because a club doesn't have a huge membership doesn't mean that it can't be active. This is true for the Art Club as well as FHA and FEA.

The largest of the three is Art Club. Its main goals were to promote art in the community and raise scholarship money. For a seasonal activity they painted windows in various downtown businesses. They also sold football concessions, but their major project was the Semi-Formal dance held in February. Club members really enjoyed decorating for the event: "Decorating for Semi-formal is the best part about Art Club. It takes a long time to put everything up, but it's cool to see the lunchroom all decorated that night."

Future Educators in Action tries to promote educational and community activities. They sold T-shirts with an environmental theme to raise scholarship money and on special occasions gave treats to the teachers.

Officers of FEA were Marianne Ellert, President; Becky Cook, Vice-president; and Holly Barry, Secretary-Treasurer. Miss Judy Eisenhut was its sponsor.

Very active for its size was the Future Homemakers of America. Their group tries to promote the home and family as well as developing an interest in home economics. For fund raisers they sold candy and concessions. They attended some district meetings of their organization as well as having a bowling party and a candy-making party.

FHA officers were Marianne Ellert, President; Chris Caldwell, Vice-president; Debra Collier, Secretary; and Becky Cook, Treasurer. Mrs. Pat Pitzer was their sponsor.

FFA • ICE---

Old and New; These Groups Work

Two organizations that are closely related to classes are FFA (related to the ag classes) and ICE (related to the Interdisciplinary Cooperative Education program). ICE was new to DHS in 1994-95.

Sponsored by Mr. Dave Gurtner, FFA's goals are to encourage leadership, citizenship, and cooperation in its members and to develop career and job skills in them. FFA was busy all year. Their ag sales team (1st in state) and ag marketing team (2nd in state) competed nationally.

FFA members attended national and state conventions and the National Livestock Judging Competition at Harrisburg, PA. Various other competitions included dairy judging, livestock judging, chapter meeting contest, leadership contests, and small engine contests.

Officers of FFA were David Hefty, President; Greg Dunn, Vice-President; Robert Long, Secretary; Netha Morningstar, Treasurer; Kevin Days, Reporter; Ryan Baird, Sentinel; and Scott Blomeke, Student Advisor.

Mrs. Ann Linson sponsored ICE. The club is designed to develop leadership skills in its members and to set a good example for future ICE students. The first ICE project was putting together a Buzz Book listing student names and phone numbers. They went on various professional outings and held a banquet. As a special project they conducted a raffle. A portion of the earnings were donated to Operation Shelter in Auburn.

Officers of ICE were Amanda Brammer, President; Chad Gramling, Vice-president; Tony Ruiz, Secretary; Tom Pittman, Treasurer; and Bob Keb, Historian.

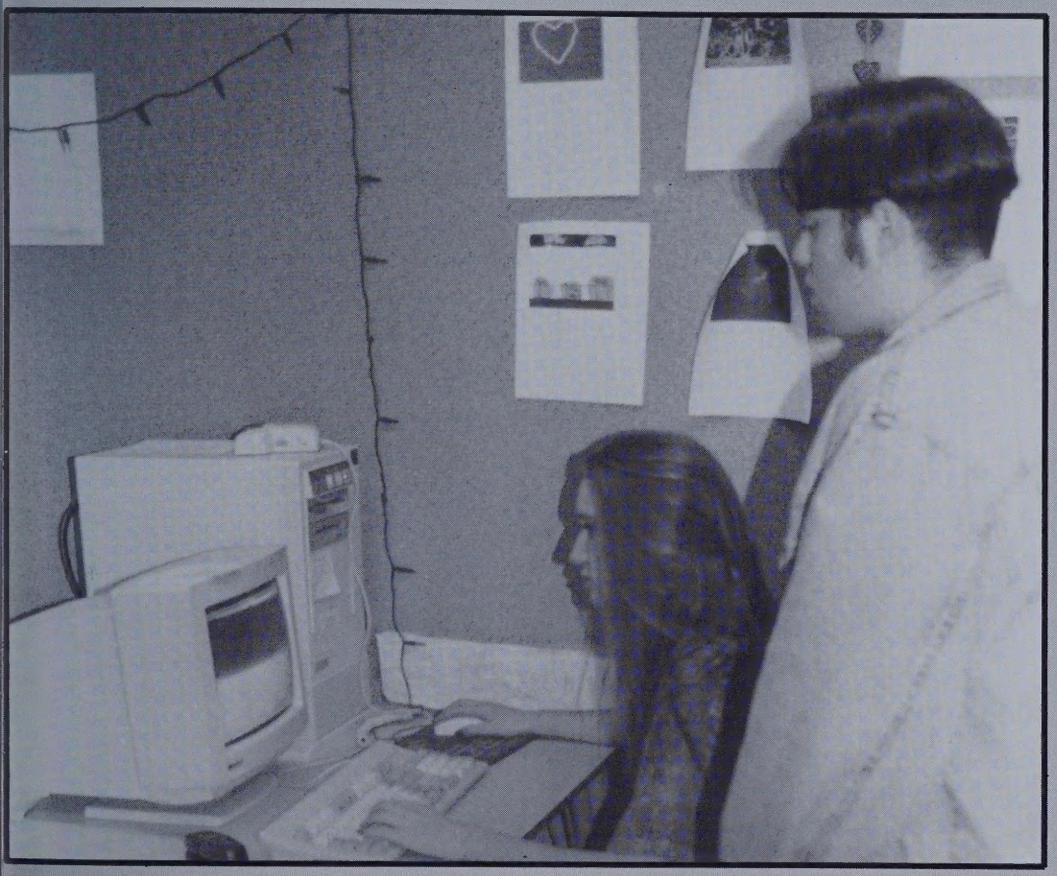
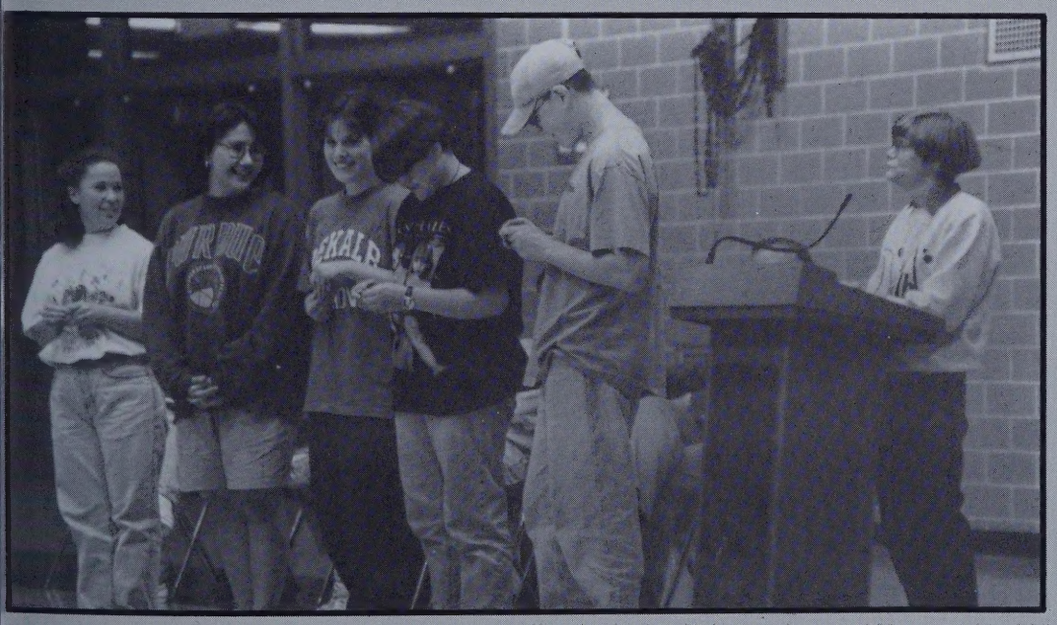
As Jacob Durst watches, Laura Louthan works on the computer in the newspaper office to check on the results of the Senior Poll.





Look what we got! Members of the editorial board of the Baron Shield line up after receiving their awards at the Spring Recognition Convo.

The two major student publications are the Baron Shield, the newspaper, and the Saber, the yearbook. Although each publication is supported by a Journalism class in the English department, there is much work that must be done outside of class time.

The Baron Shield staff was responsible for reporting, laying out, photography, art design, circulation, and ad sales campaign necessary to produce nine issues during the year. Each semester, the staff held a party to celebrate their accomplishments.

Guest speakers included a former student now involved in professional journalism. These speakers shared their knowledge and experience with the staff members. A few staff members attended the Indiana High School Press Association convention at Franklin College in the fall.

Co-Editors-in-Chief were Cherrie Baysinger and Lori Pfister; Business Manager was Amanda Pancake, and Assistant Editors were Becky Rhodes and Nate Dennison. The sponsor was Mrs. Dottie Heminger.

The Saber staff was responsible for producing the book you now hold in your hands. The theme was selected, the cover was designed, the ladder was planned, pictures were taken, pages were designed, copy was written, and proofs were read. Avid television viewers, the staff got some work accomplished in between their favorite programs.

Never A DULL MOMENT IN ALBUM

Never a Dull Moment! Hopes were high as the Baron faithful arrived at the RCA Dome in Indy for the 4A State football finals and sang the school song. Although the team lost the game, "proud Barons they remained."

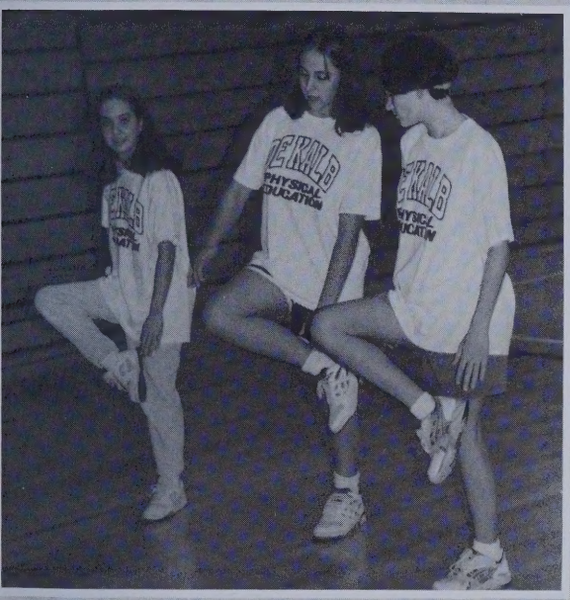
Required PE Keeps 'Em Hopping



One required class for sophomores is physical education. Left, Lori Rodebaugh, Kim Schaab, and Rachael Miller work on a dance in Mrs. Cheryl Gilbert's class.

Taking part in a traditional Hoosier activity, these guys in Mr. Mike Cochran's class work on their skills in a spirited game of shirts vs. skins.

In Memory of Sheena Cristin McBrier

October 19, 1976 -- February 13, 1995

Sheena Cristin McBrier , daughter of Dennis and Doris McBrier, was a senior at DHS and a lifetime resident of rural Kendallville. At DHS she was a football cheerleader and a member of French Club, Art Club, the Speech Team, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, and Letterwinners. Sheena had a heart and lung transplant at Loyola University Medical Center near Chicago on September 6, 1994. Eventually Sheena experienced rejection of the transplant and she died February 13, 1995, at 9:05 a.m. at her home. Sheena will be remembered by her friends and family for her beautiful smile, positive attitude, and trust in the Lord.

Powder Puff Fun

Proving that beauty is strictly in the eye of the beholder, these "lovelies" were on hand to encourage their Powder Puff classmates: David Sheppard, Mark Higgins, Jer Parker, Logan Kempf, Ryan Faber, and Mike Souder.

Along the sidelines Jeremy Fluke gives his team some expert advice. With Katie Dove guarding her from behind, Chris Corey seems determined to make a big gain as the senior Powder Puff team goes for a win.

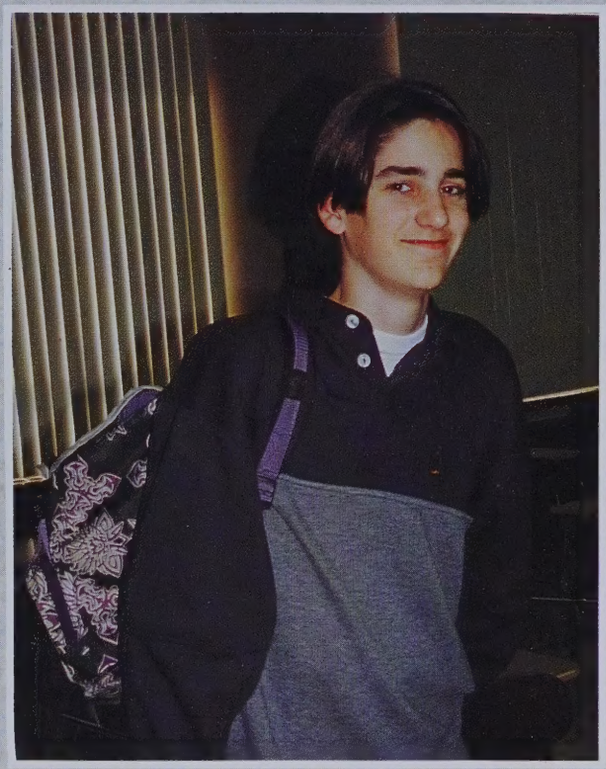
Dols Visits U.S.



With his always-full back pack is David Dols, exchange student from Harlingen, Netherlands. David left his parents Jos and Regien and his older brother Danyel behind to spend a year here. David said he was surprised by the difference in everyday life. Upon his return home, he planned to continue his education to eventually get a job in tourism.

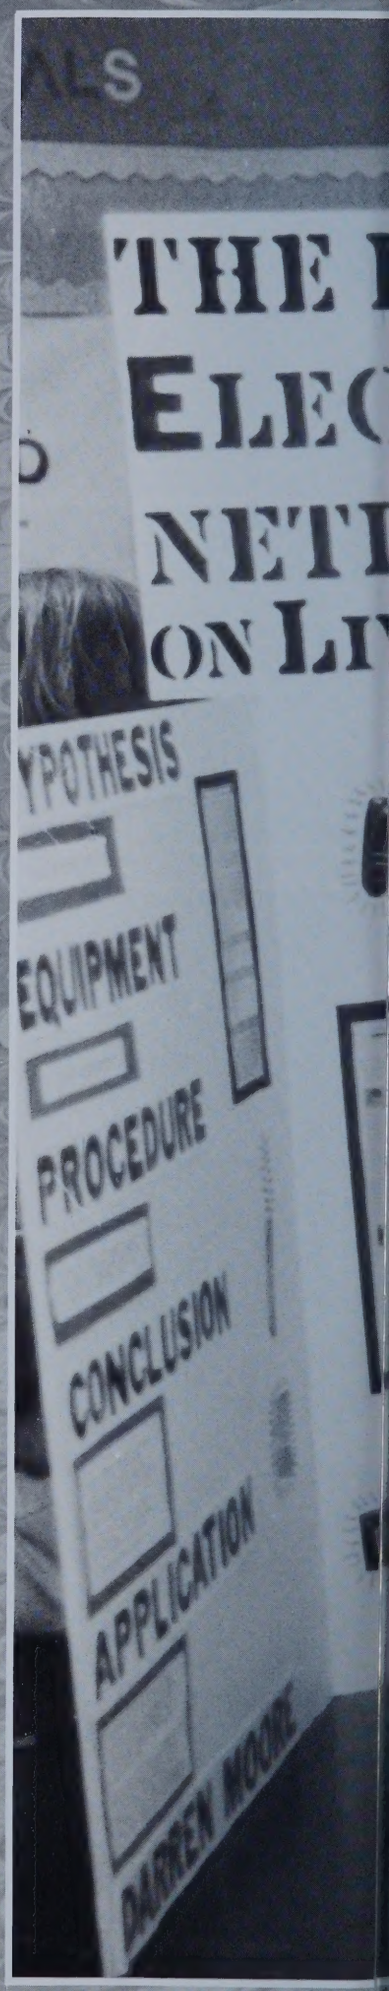
Never A DULL MOMENT

IN ACADEMICS



Never a Dull Moment! Does he seem relaxed enough? Darren Moore waits for the Science Fair judge to visit him so that he can explain the results of his year of experimentation.

Never a Dull Moment! Don't they seem to be deep into a serious discussion? Working on a group project for U. S. history class are Josh John and Tim Hine.

Never a Dull Moment! How much power is going through that cord? Tech Prep student Cary Handley operates the controls as she leads Michelle James through the halls.

Art Feeds the Soul; Home Ec, the Body

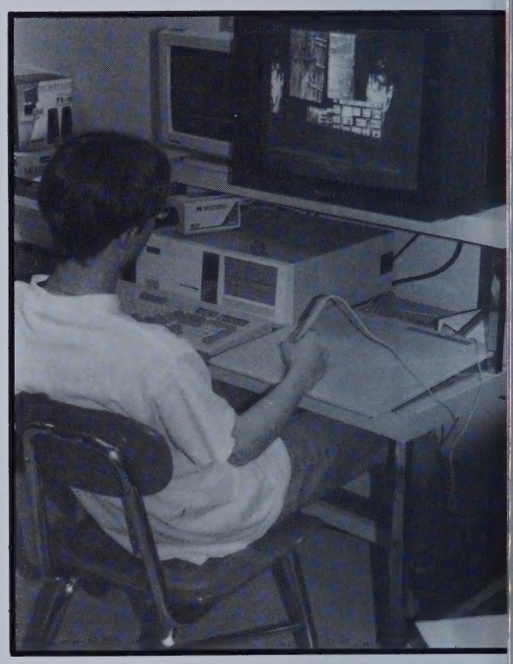
Spending most of his spare time in the art room T.J. Firestone works on the computer distortin an image from the comic book "The Crow."



The first big project for Foods I and II was the preparation of refreshments for the Honor Society induction. Another big event was preparing and serving a Thanksgiving dinner to the faculty and staff. Second semester included a field trip to Plyley's Candies in LaGrange. Lunch at Pizza Hit was enjoyed by all.

"I believe art is an expression of yourself and your beliefs, presented creatively for others to enjoy."

•Rachel Marquardt, Art I

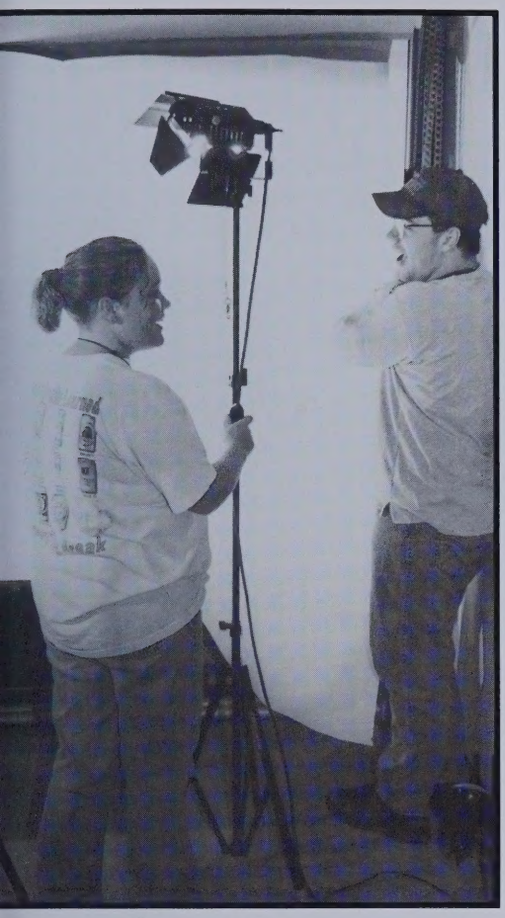
For the twentieth year the drawing and painting students went to the DeKalb Free Fall Fair to draw on site for the whole day. The Art History class enjoyed a conservation project at Renaissance Publishing, where they did an inventory of art work retained in the company's vault.

Speakers in Child Development class included Adoption Resource Services and Scan. Many children were invited to the class during the semester. This included Mrs. Eatinger's son. Some of the students decided not to have children after viewing the birth of the baby video!

"I'm glad that I had the opportunity to visit the Art Institute of Chicago with the class. I was surprised by the size of some of the paintings. I especially enjoyed the special exhibit about Gustave Caillebotte. I learned something about his paintings that otherwise I wouldn't have known."

•Jenny Shuherk, Freshman

Trying to ignore the photographer, Clothing I student Deb Collier works on pressing a garment that she made for her sister.



Photography seems to be lots of fun as Dana Rohr and Rob Brownell adjust lighting and background for taking some still life pictures.

"Kids do the darndest things," might be one of the observations of the Child Development class and their visitors.

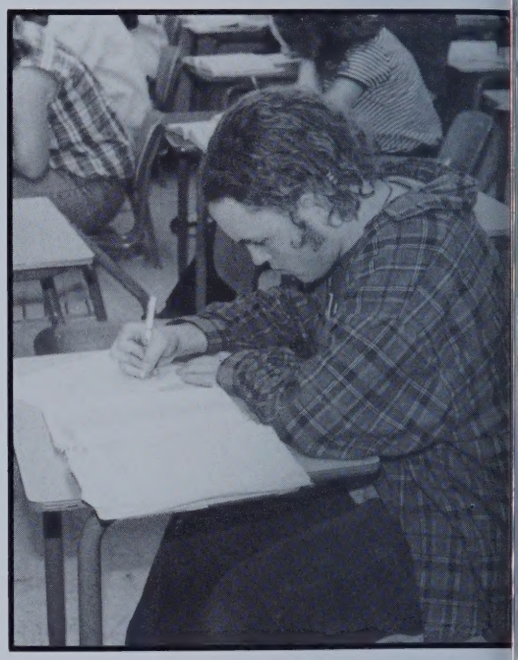
Putting the finishing touches on her self portrait is Independent Study student Dee Somkit. Do you think it looks like her?

Hoping to keep the lumps out, Heather Sprague and Jackie Fuller prepare the gravy for the Thanksgiving dinner for the faculty.

Working With Numbers Is One Common Bond

Making good use of the computer classroom, Typewriting/Production student Ann Dendinger enjoys working on her assignment.

Algebra I student Mike Hile must have a lot of confidence in his mathematical skills since he seems to be doing his work with a pen.



The best field trip taken by Mr. Talley's Tech Prep Math class was to the Junior Achievement Center in Ft. Wayne. There the students were provided with information on jobs such as a general contractor, brick mason, roofer, electrician, and concrete finisher. Each person representing these trades had a hands-on activity for the students to take part in. Students were able to design a house given certain restrictions, wire a light to two switches, etc. The students interacted well with the tradespeople and appreciated being able to take part in the activities.

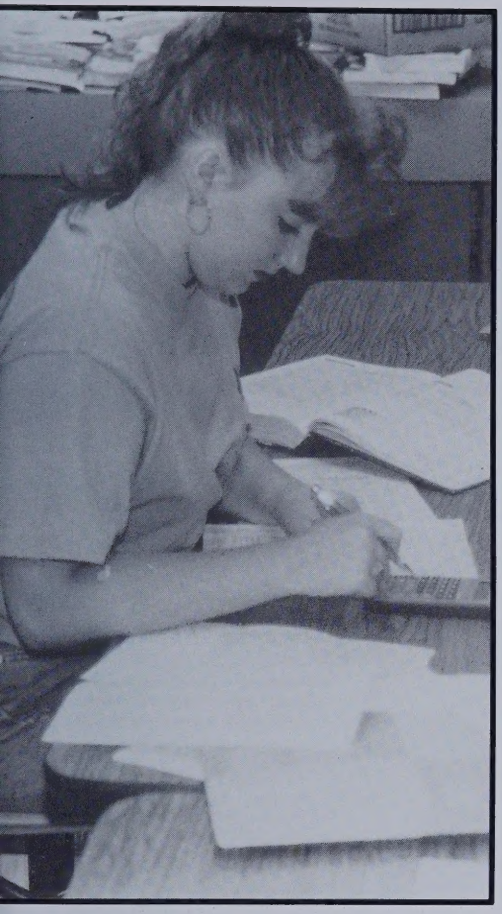
In the fall, twelve local businesses took part in a "job shadowing" program for the Business Lab students. These included Auburn Foundry, Cooper, the Court House, DeKalb Schools, DeKalb Memorial, Farm Bureau Insurance, Farmer's Home Administration, Kruse & Kruse, Dr. Scheumann, and Dr. Souder. Each student shadowed at eight businesses for a day to gain insight as to what working there would be like. It was a rewarding experience that these businesses made possible.

"In Intensive Business Lab we're not always at work. We enjoy our guest speakers, visitors, and most of all, our small office parties!"

• Sarah Buzzard, Kelly Pinkerton, Brooke Charleswood, Somer Anderson

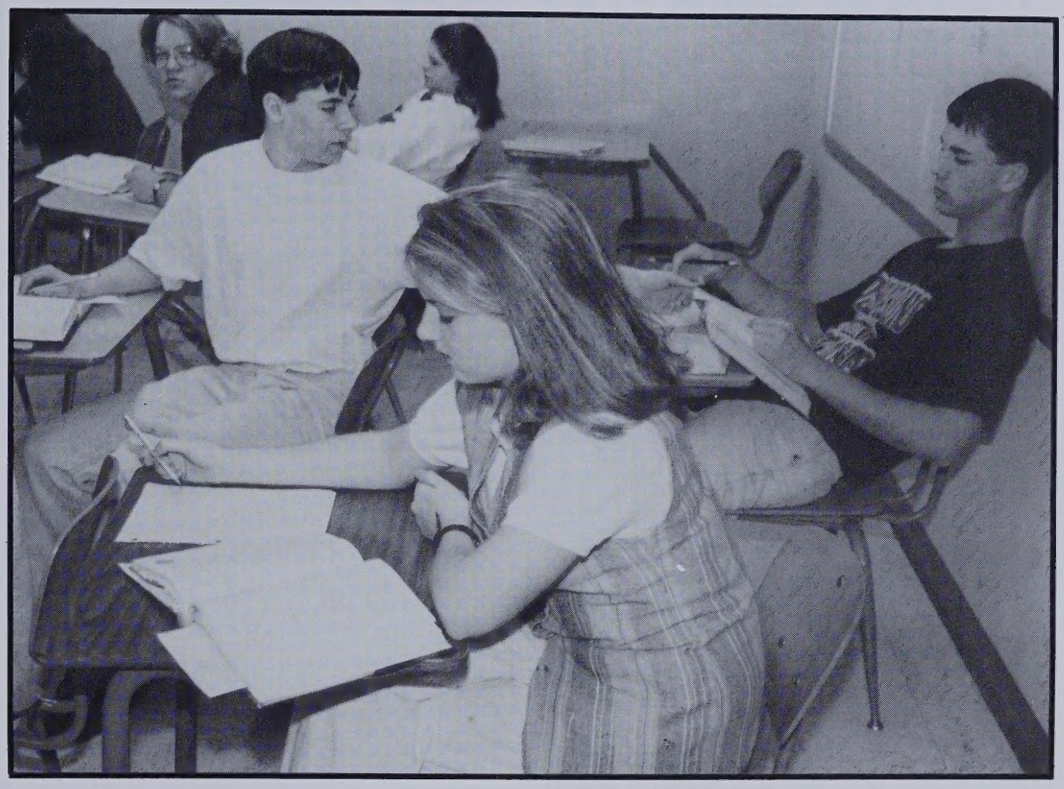
Math teacher Mr. Dennis Fleming is amazed at the number of dedicated students at DHS. He observed that a number of students actually took their books outside with them during the afternoon "field trip" we spent at the football grandstands during the time of the bomb scare. "I had several students coming to me for help on Algebra 2, analytic geometry, English, Vocabulary, and even Biology," he observed.

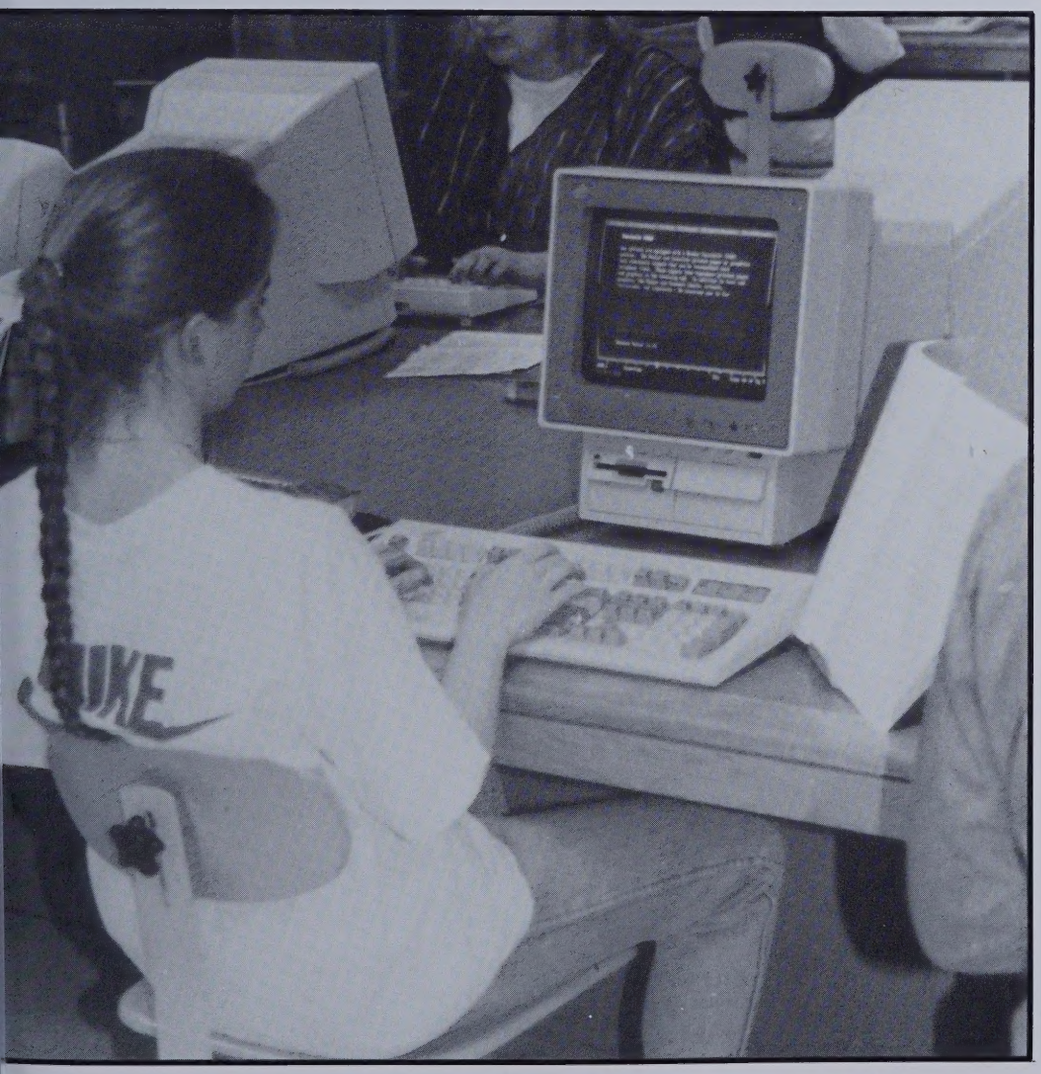
Working on the latest in a seemingly endless stream of homework assignments in Analytical Geometry is Julie Hummer.

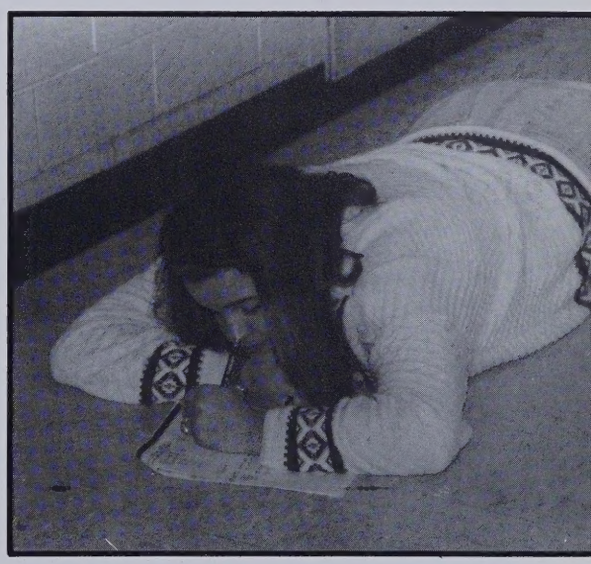


What did Accounting students do before the calculator was invented? Jenni Powell uses hers to complete an assigned project.

In Geometry, you figure all the angles. Valerie Hurni concentrates as Jeremy Kenner and Matt McBrier are otherwise occupied.







Brandy Bachellor works on her Algebra assignment on the floor in the hallway while the rest of her class goes over something.

Keyboarding I student Becca Sprankle checks her monitor to see whether she is doing the assignment correctly.

Classes Help Us Learn Many Valuable Lessons

It must be a Friday because Drafting I studen Nick Kaiser (left) seems to be working on one o Mr. Robert Voelkel's famous auxiliary quizes.

Keeping a steady hand and trying to ignore th photographer, Eric Shaffer (below) works o sanding his magazine rack.

Mr. Myers' Tech Prep class used the CAD equipment from the drafting room. It was a real challenge to most of the students, but they began to catch on to it. In a few short weeks they learned quite a number of the operations that CAD systems can perform. A fun activity for the class was their cyborg robots roaming the halls.

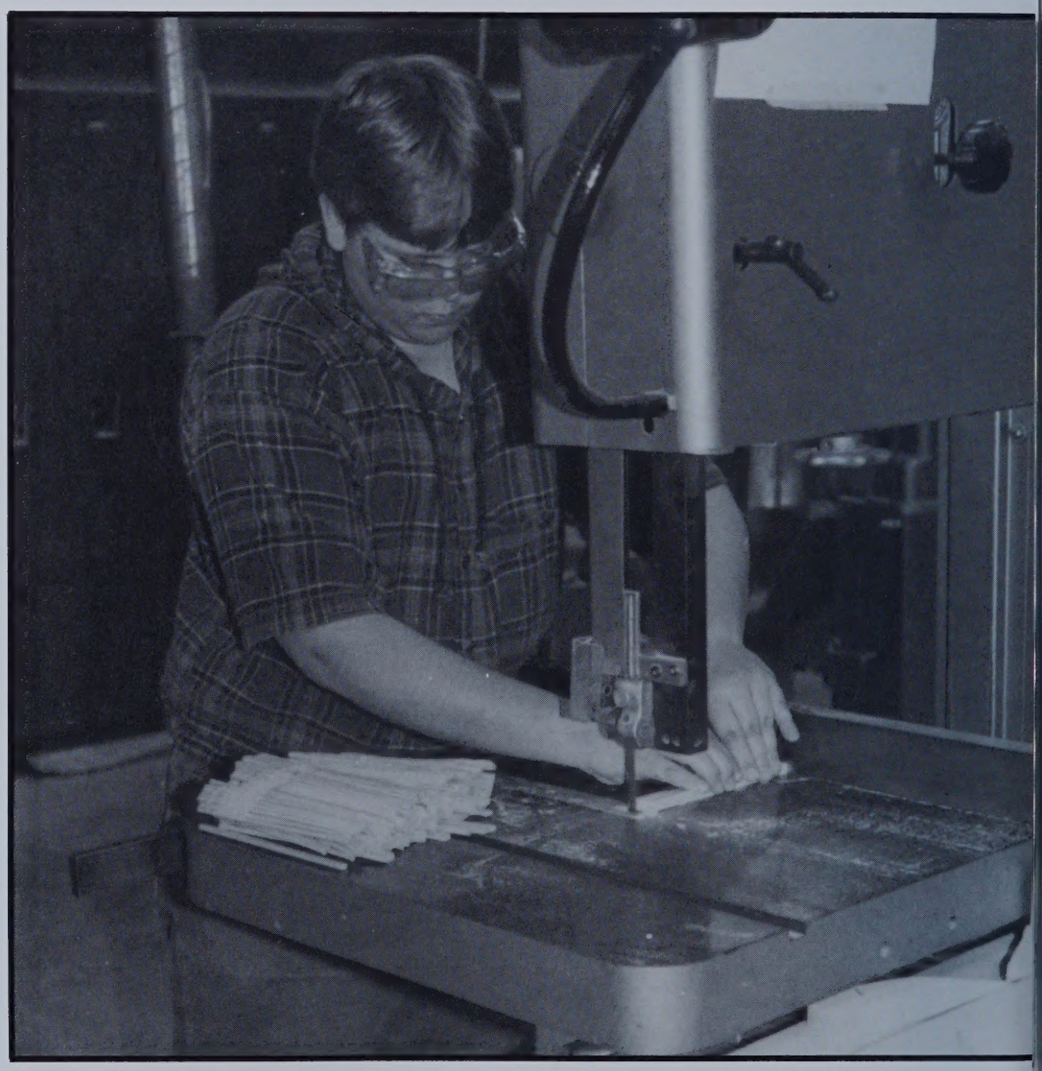
The fifth hour woods class had several craftsmen building detailed toy trucks. They put a great deal of time, thought, and effort into cement mixers, dump trucks, in addition to rocking horses. Mr. Ritenour was very proud of the efforts of this class.

"Woodworking can be difficult at times, but it is very rewarding."

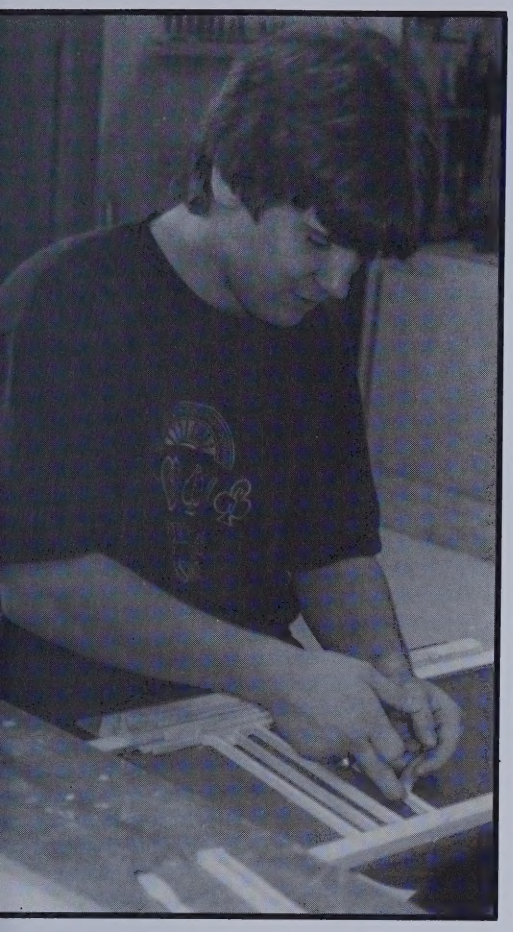
•Patrick Pettyjohn,Sophomore

One day, one of the woods students cut her piece of wood too short and asked the teacher for help. She was sent to the Ag room to ask for the board stretcher. After half an hour of being hooked up to the stretcher, the board had not gotten any longer and the student was puzzled. Someone finally had to explain to Darlene Weaver that once a piece of wood has been cut, it cannot be lengthened.

As Mr. Konieczki was preparing himself for a lecture on the importance of the safe disposal of various waste which might be found in the metal shop, he accidentally sat on a wet towel which had been used to clean off some student desks. Needless to say, the back of his light colored pants ended up rather wet. Somewhat embarrassed, he turned away from the students with the perfect example of where not to place discarded waste--where someone could sit on it!



Preparing the 2x4's and 2x8's for use by the Basic Building Trades class, Mark Henderson keeps his fingers clear as he uses the band-saw.



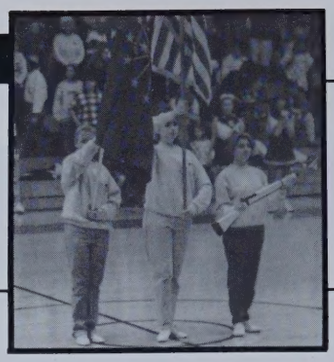
Working on one wall of his future model house, Basic Building Trades student Steve Crager places the wood strip in its proper place.

Operating the machinery is sometimes a challenge as Metals I student Jeremy Sexton works on turning a project on the lathe.

No, he's not painting the wall. Metals I student Robert Weber is very carefully putting the finishing touches on his sheet metal project.

Working on the drill press can sometimes attract a crowd as Ben Close, Martin Medina and Jeff Harris demonstrate.

Baron Brigade Places Ninth at State Contest



The Music Department adds to basketball games by the Brigadiers presenting the colors (left) and the Pep Band playing music (below).

"The Baron Brigade had a very good year. We achieved our goal. We went to state. Standing on the floor of the Hoosier Dome is a memory I will never forget. It was also fun going to the Dome a second time with the football team."

•Stacey Farver, Junior

The Baron Brigade had a successful marching season, ending at State with ninth place. They were second in both District and Regional contests, being judged both times as having the Best General Effect. First place finishes came at the DeKalb Fair Parade, the Homestead Fall Festival, and the New Haven Invitational. In the latter two, they were judged "Best" in a total of nine areas. They placed second at the Goshen Invitational.

"Pep Band was really fun this year since we were in the bottom bleachers. We really got into the game. The other thing that we changed this year was our shirts. They made us look a lot better. I'll always remember when the Spark plugs were trying to do cart wheels for some odd reason and neither one could do just one."

•Kevin Drew, Freshman

Newly formed this year was a group known as the Winterguard. They competed on their own besides performing at several home basketball games. Their show was based on the dramatic story of the sorceress Medea in Greek mythology. They felt they did quite well for their first year of competition, finishing sixth at Tippecanoe Valley, Franklin, and Monroe Central; ninth at Warsaw; and tenth at Yorktown. In the state prelims at Mooresville, they placed twentieth out of 56.

Justin Stefanski holds his horn high as he and the rest of the Baron Brigade spend some of their after-school time marching in the parking lot.

Winterguard member Nikki Fisher (left) holds her flag and prepares for the next move as she takes part in the show at half-time.

Taking part in the parade that is part of the ACD Festival are the Baron Brigade (above) and the Brigadiers (left).

With the drum majors out in front, the Baron Brigade takes to the field to put on another outstanding show for the football fans.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC

Concert, Symphonic, Jazz Bands Entertain

Spring brought the competition season for the indoor performing bands. The Concert Band, for the first time ever, was entered in Group II of the ISSMA contest and they did quite well, with a Division I rating and the best scores ever received by Concert Band. In Group I, the Symphonic Band also was ranked in Division I. They also received the best scores ever for Symphonic Band. This marked the band's third time to receive Division I in this most difficult category.

From the Fall Concert involving those band members who were not in the Baron Brigade to the performance at graduation, the bands had a full schedule. There was a concert at Christmas time and one for Valentine's Day. The bands also took part in a Spring Concert in May, and the Jazz Bands had a special jazz concert. The Concert and Symphonic Bands went to the County Band Festival at Garrett and took part in the ISSMA Festival. The Jazz Bands went to the Snider Invitational and also performed at various community functions.

"Concert band is one period of the day that you can sit back and relax. You don't have to worry about getting your homework done or studying for tests."

•Melissa Bundy, Sophomore

Meeting in the morning before school, the jazz bands consist of a group of very dedicated musicians. Playing a variety of contemporary music, these bands provide an outlet for those wanting to play something besides traditional band music. Both jazz bands were judged in Division II in their respective groups in the ISSMA contest.

Keeping an eye on their music are these two members of the Symphonic Band's flute section, Shelley Bolinger and Shawn Wetosky.

Mental, Physical Fitness Are Targeted In Class

Building better biceps may be the goal as Donovan Martin (left) works in the weight room. We're not sure what the goals of Josh Voirol (below) might be.

P.E. took on a new trend every Friday in Miss Taelman's required classes. Instructed by Miss Lash, student teacher, the classes did a variety of fitness oriented activities in order to help them keep in top physical shape. The activities ranged from aerobics to aeroboxing to relaxation tehniques. Also the classes brought in soup cans to not only increase resistance in aerobics but also to help the American Red Cross. These days all students were sweating to the oldies.

"Fun is the only word to explain physical education. We've done everything from archery to football. The most fun I ever had was when Miss Laura Lash, our student teacher, had Fun Fitness Friday. I think we did every kind of exercise on those days, but she made it exciting and it really made us feel good about ourselves."

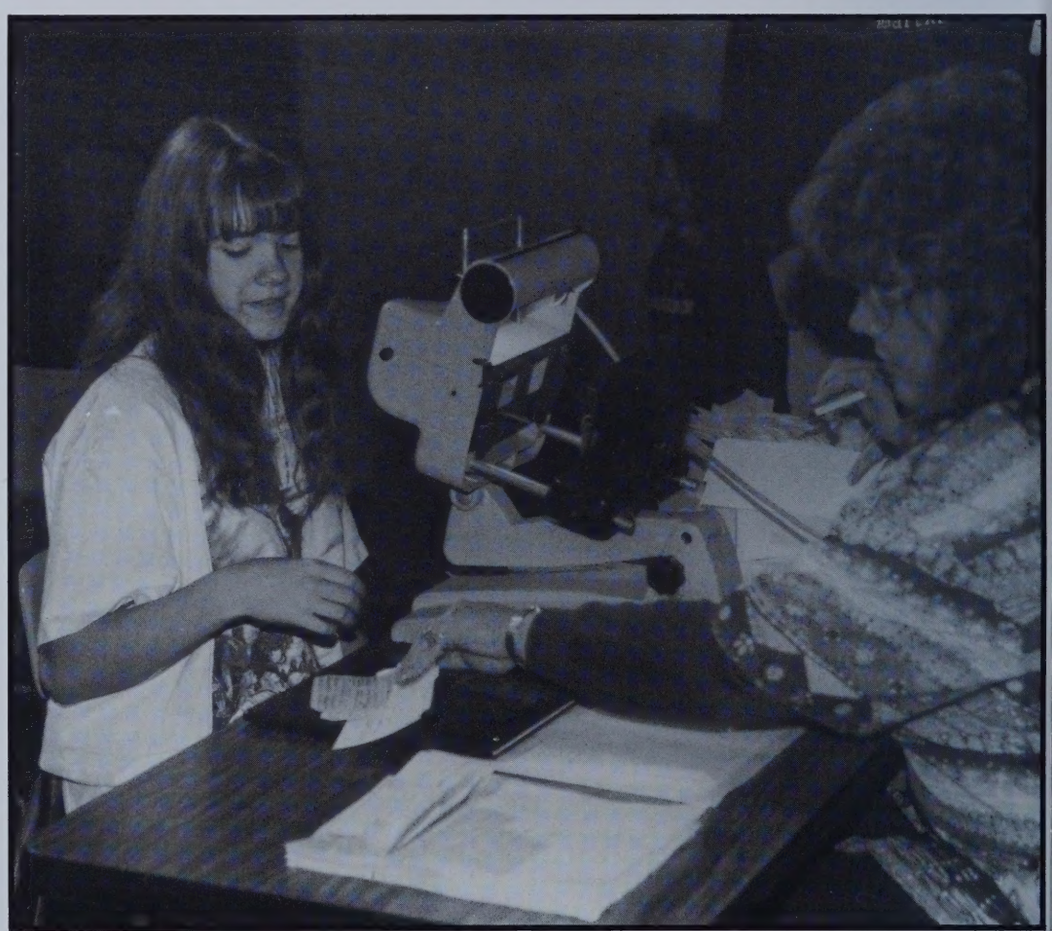
•Kim Schaab, Sophomore

Quest class has the main objective of improving communications in all relationships--friends, family, dates, spouse, parenting, and on the job. A wide range of guest speakers included the probation department, individual and family counselors, speakers on child abuse and family violence, learning styles and learning disabilities, teen pregnancy, and those recovering from alcoholism and drug abuse.

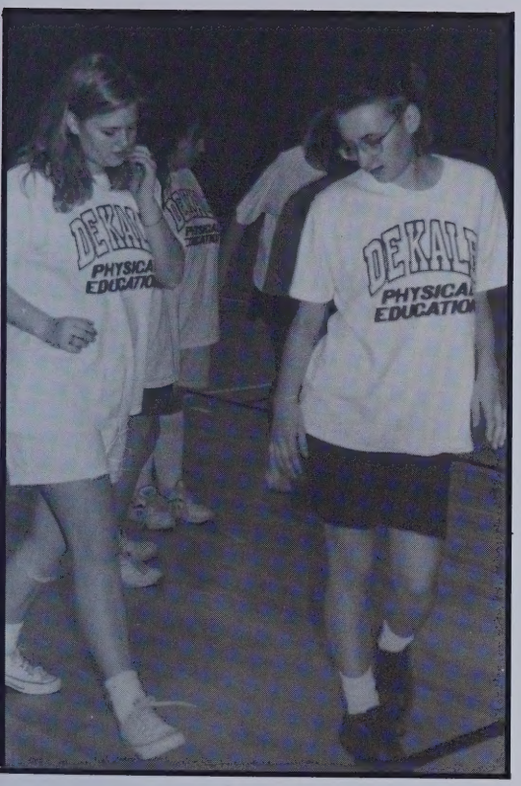
"I really enjoyed Quest class. You can learn how to argue correctly, how to get along better with your parents, and how to make your marriage last."

•Rachel Bailey, Senior

The Driver Ed field trip to the county jail was a real eye opener. Students learned what would happen if they were arrested for drinking and driving. The classes also enjoyed several guest speakers who provided valuable information with many real-life experiences.

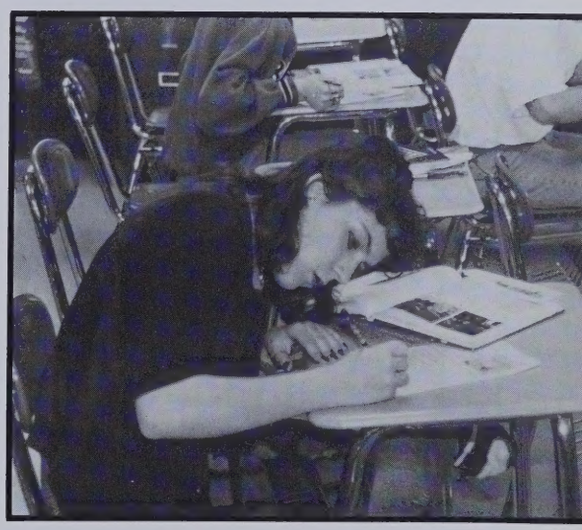


In order to take Drivers Ed in the summer, it is first necessary to pass the eye exam, so Nikki Anderson is ready for the BMV examiner.



"First you step out like this," explains Cassidy McKie to Lisa Forbes as they work on a dance in their Physical Education class.

Working in front of the mirror in the weight training room, Mike Medina pumps iron in hopes of seeing positive results soon.



Working on yet another assignment in the Drivers Ed book, Amie Havener hopes she'll be ready when it's time to get behind the wheel.

One major emphasis in both boys' and girls' Phys Ed classes is working together on team sports as demonstrated in the two pictures, (left).

It's Both What You Say And How You Say It

Working on a vocabulary assignment in her freshman English class, Tanya Carper gets some needed assistance from Mrs. Jan Pence.

Preparing for their holiday-time skit in German class, Diane Hursh seems amused by the appearance of Courtney Deller as Santa.

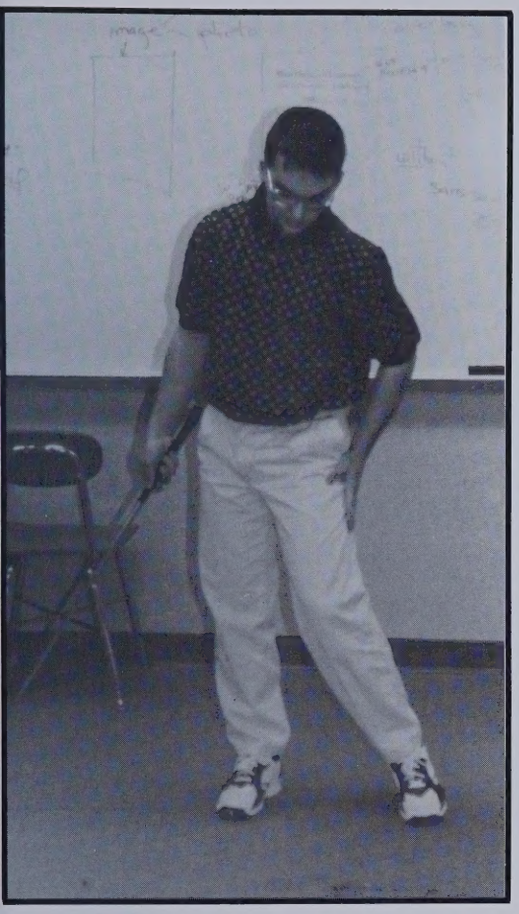
Spanish classes had several projects. Both third and fourth year classes did some cooking of various international foods and while in the kitchen, all students conversed in Spanish. Spanish 3 practiced "dubbing" parts of their favorite movies, while Spanish 2 used music to learn grammar. Spanish 1 learned about hispanic culture by celebrating the day of the dead and the 5th of May. Several students prepared authentic food for the celebrations.

Spell Bowl competition was held in the fall. All four grades were represented on the team, which took part in four meets. Besides the East Noble and Garrett Invitationals, they took part in the NHC meet at Carroll, where they placed seventh. The area meet at New Haven in October saw the Barons placing third in Class I.

Mrs. Gay Kirkton's English 9A class met with Mrs. Andrea VanHorne's art students to study landscapes in art and Impressionistic artists. They then took a field trip to the Chicago Museum of Art to view a special exhibit of the paintings of Gustave Caillebotte. Her 9S class read The Miracle Worker and acted out the dining room scene in which Helen and Annie Sullivan struggle before Helen finally eats her breakfast with silverware.

German III and IV classes took a trip to Frankenmuth, Michigan, to experience the German culture of "little Bavaria." The students observed a woodcarving school in progress while speaking German to the owner. The master woodcarver and his wife are natives of southern Bavaria, Germany's largest state. Another highlight included a tour of a pretzel factory and a "hands-on" pretzel-twisting school, where the Barons had their hands in the "dough" and learned this special art.

One special presentation in several English classes was a substance abuse awareness display brought in by the Auburn Police Chief.



Demonstration speeches are one highlight of Speech class. Left, Jason Starkey shows and tells about how to hit a golf ball.

Posing proudly with the elaborate model stage setting that she made for Brighton Beach Memoirs is Angie Dickman.

Putting in some more hours of research in the Media Center are Composition I students Kelly Days and Stacy Leins.

Students of all foreign languages are gathered together in Mr. Greg Vick's classroom to sing Christmas songs in their various languages.

They're all dressed up with somewhere to go! Some members of the HOE class are ready for operating room orientation.

This is only a test. HOE students act as victims of an airplane collision in a mock disaster drill in conjunction with EMS of DeKalb County.

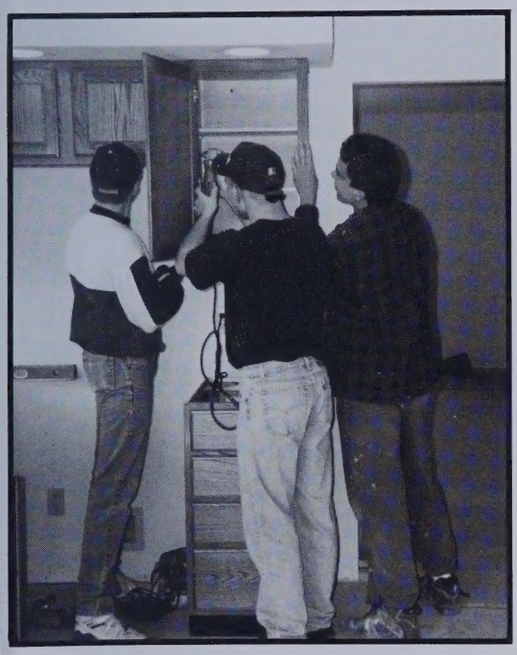
Getting close to their work, Jason Haiflich and Chris Moore work on repairing the parts of the motor that are still inside the automobile.

"I think maybe that's what needs to be fixed," points out Mr. Dave Gurtner to his Ag Mechanics students, Dale Menges and Wes Akey.

Addition of ICE Class Enriches Curriculum

ICE student April Kuhlman (right) totals up some checks at her job at Peoples Federal Bank. ICE was a new program this year.

Building Trades students Chris Erwin, Jarrod Charlton, and Sam Sarbacker work on putting together the kitchen cabinets in their house.



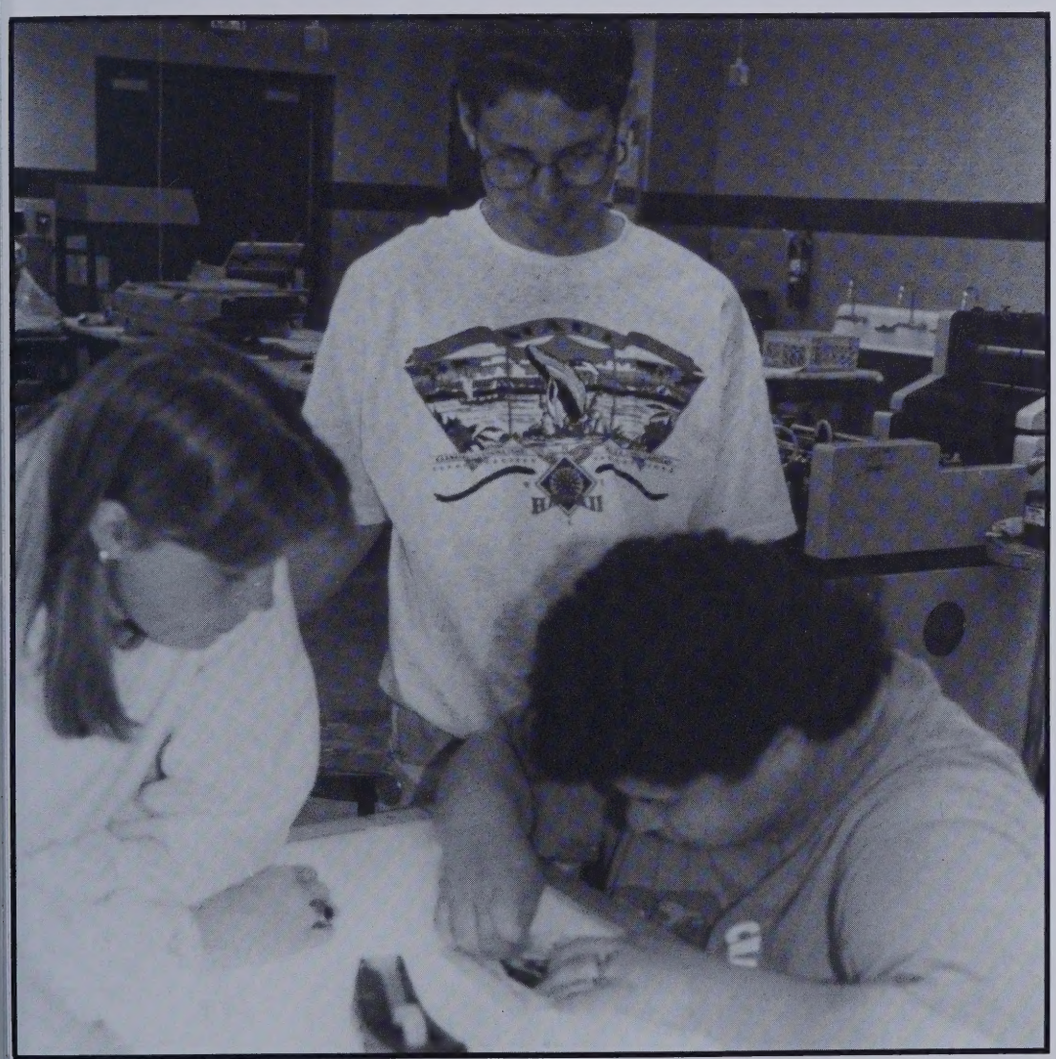
The H.O.E. class visited Cook County Hospital, a large county hospital located in the heart of Chicago. Especially interesting was the Trauma Unit, one of the first in the nation, that treats critically injured patients who have suffered severe trauma as a result of gunshot wounds, auto accidents, etc. The class also participated in a mock disaster drill in conjunction with the EMS of DeKalb County, acting as victims of a crash of two airplanes at the DeKalb County Airport.

Students in the I.C.E. program are at risk of injury on the job. Aware of this, students often shared experiences with the class. Tom Eulitt accidentally ran over a nest of baby rabbits while curring the grass at Gibson's. Andy Case's clothing caught on fire while welding at Fabtron (he said it was because his overalls were too clean). Other safety experiences included observing accidents--Chad Schwartz saw someone get a piece of wood jammed into the back of a coworker's leg, Jason Mann observed a coworker lose two fingers, and Andy Case observed a coworker have a heart attack.

"In Graphic Arts I made my own graduation stuff. It was fun for me because I know how to run the press all by myself."

•Jacqueline Williams, Senior

Graphic Arts Vocational is a three-hour class. The students print all of the office forms (corridor passes, incident reports, detention slips, etc.), all of the athletic programs, the play programs, and tickets. Many of the students also design and print their own graduation announcements. This class gives the student a great opportunity to work as a team and gain valuable experience for entering college and/or finding a job.



Working on the light table in Graphic Arts Lab, Jacqueline Williams is carefully watched by Tara Sewelin and Jerry Simanton.

Hefty Makes Second Trip To International

Looking to see if their pig has all of its internal organs in the right place are biology students Jill Mossing, Jill Hurni, and Tiffany Peters (left) and Jill Mossing again (below).

In the fall, Mr. Moreland's student teacher, Miss Bohde, decided she wanted to take the Standard Biology students on a field trip into the woods in back of the school. Because she carefully planned for the trip, as the students were walking down the paths, she was able to point out many practical aspects of the woods.

"Biology II was one of my most challenging classes. I really enjoyed dissecting rats! As a vegetarian, I have never had so much fun cutting up dead animals in my life."

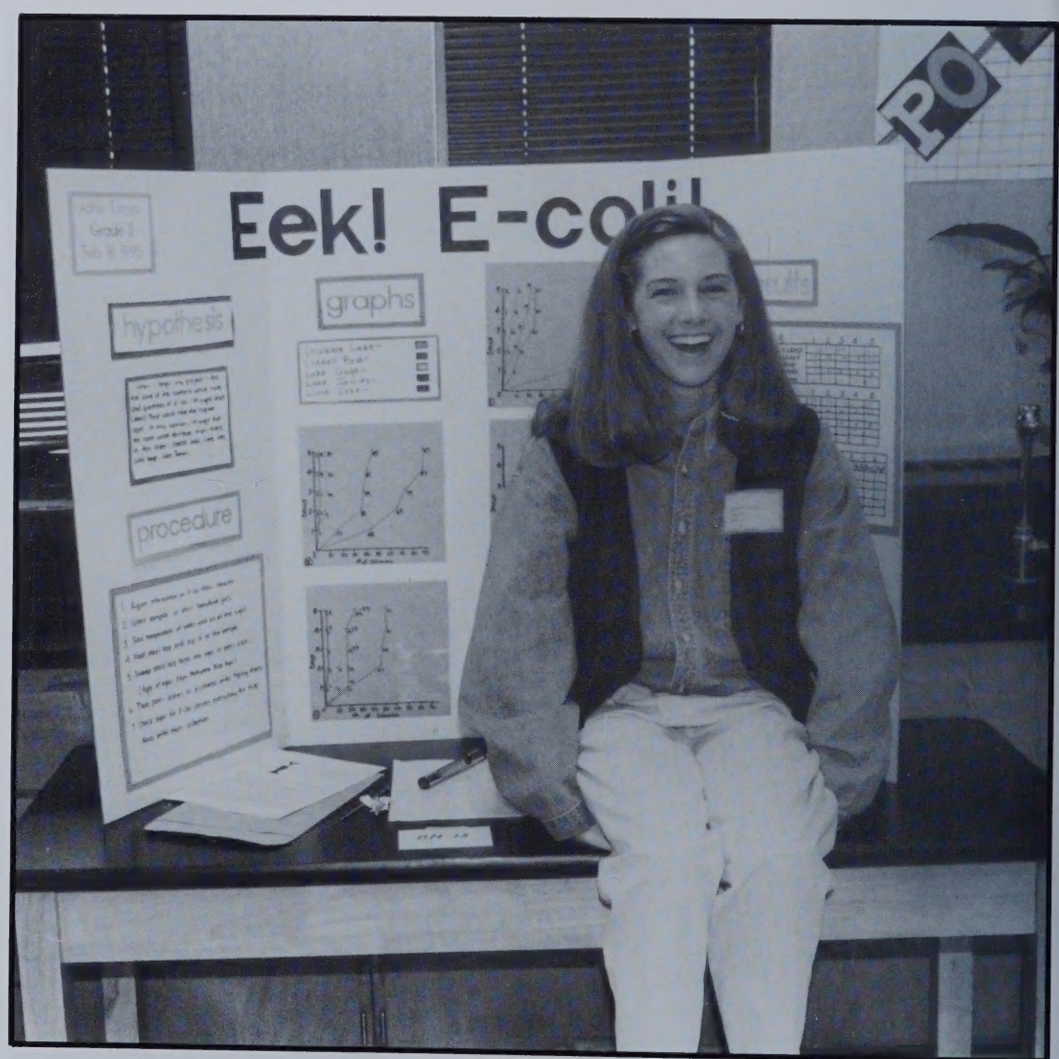
•Jacob Durst, Senior

Physics class took their fifth annual Physics Day trip to Cedar Point. Students were assigned three rides to analyze applying physics concepts learned during the year. Their work was counted as their final exam for second semester. About 5,000 students from around the midwest were there.

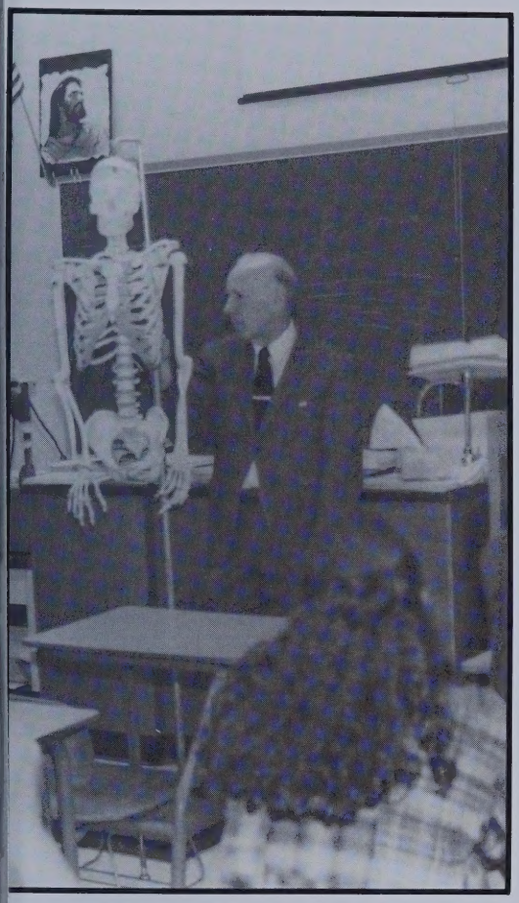
"Participating in Science Fairs gives you more than the satisfaction of presenting your own work for competition. It also allows you to gain valuable communication and reasoning skills needed for life."

David Hefty, International Finalist

Science Fair was particularly successful. Beginning with the local fair, DeKalb students received many awards and honors. At the Northeast Tri-State Regional Science Fair, many DeKalb students received first place awards in their categories. Three DeKalb Central students went to the state Science Fair in April. David Hefty received a second trip to International Science and Engineering Fair, held this year in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, where he received a third in Biochemistry.



E-Coli seemed to be a popular topic for Science Fair. Katie Turner placed fourth in Botany and Microbiology with her study.



These bones can't get up and walk around, but Mr. Jerry Moreland can tell his Academic Biology students about the upper body with them.

CHORAL DEPARTMENT

They Shall Have Music Wherever They Go!

Taitem Kretz, left, sings " Facts Are Facts" and Nate Strawser and Amanda Bowser, below, perform to "With a Wink and a Smile."

"Sound Sensation has been a wonderful experience throughout my high school years. We have had both our good times and bad times; what do you expect with a group of 40 girls? I must say the most memorable experience took place at Rolling Meadows this year. For the first time since girls choir was founded, we achieved a position in the night show amongst five mixed show choirs. We ended up 4th and also took home the Grand Champion Girls Division trophy."

•Janet Kiefer, Senior

"Concert choir is always memorable...with everything we do and every experience we have. We work very hard to perform at our concerts and are relieved when we see we've done a good job. We can't thank Shelley Johnson enough for what she has taught us and the fun we have had learning."

•Jaymee Deetz, Senior

Once again it was a year of competition and performance for the Classic Connection, the show choir. Besides hosting their own invitational, they took part in at least nine other contests. The year started right winning Grand Champion at the Bluffton Street Fair. They placed second at Findley, Kankakee, and Rolling Meadows. Third place finishes came at NHC, Bishop Luers, and Watseka. Classic Connection was fourth at Norwell, Huntington North, and Edgewood. At the conference meet, they were also judged to have best percussion and best keyboards.

Performing on stage at the DeKalb Fair, the Classic Connection guys take their hats off to Will Rogers, "Our Favorite Son."

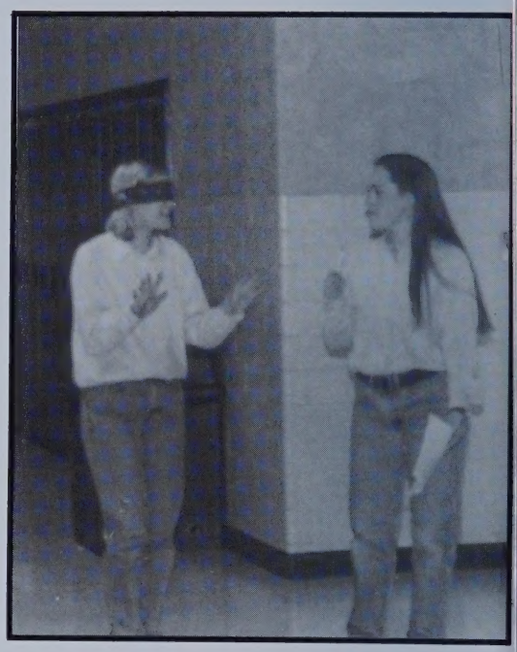
"Where are we now?" Amie Bishop asks for help from her partner Riann Wells as they learn more about the use of one's senses.



"In Current Social Problems we never knew what Christen Coulon would say next or where he got his facts from. We always waited for Mr. Jones to respond and usually the whole class had to laugh."

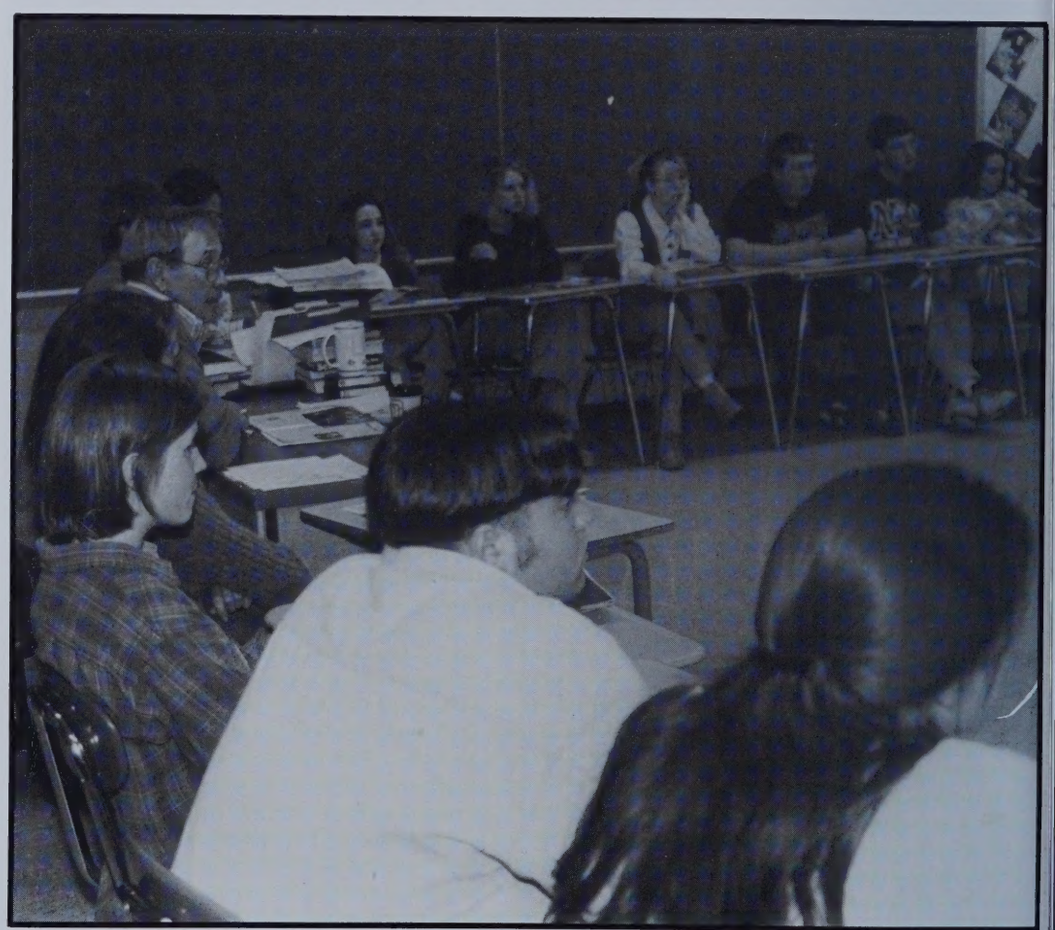
•Dawn Rieke & Deb Renfrow

The Academic Government class first semester placed second in the Fourth District Bill of Rights competition. Bobby Long, Josh Opper, and Angie Schaab's winning topic was "Expanding Protections of the Bill of Rights." David Hefty, Erica Moore, and Paul Wrona placed first with "Procedural Due Process Rights." "Preserving and Extending Our Rights" won first place for Rick Pfister, Heather Marhenke, and Annie Spear. The meet was held at Taylor University in Fort Wayne.

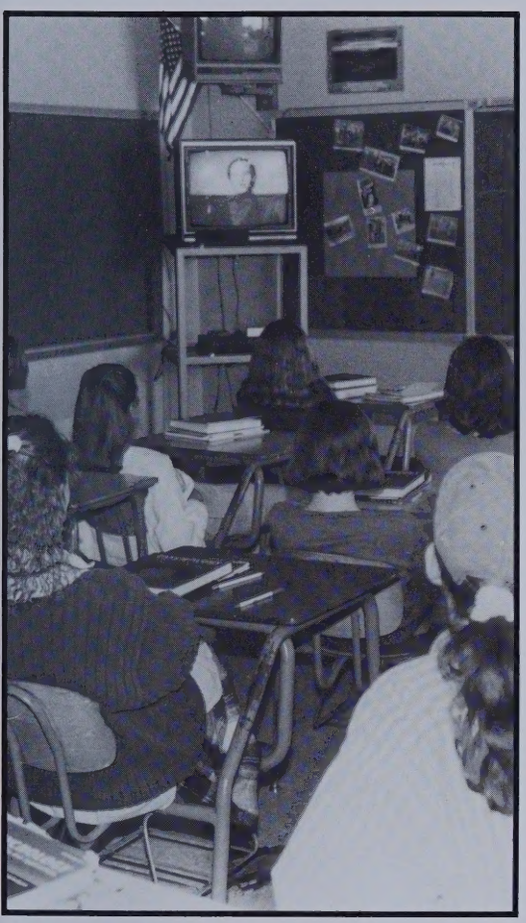
The Academic Decathlon is a national scholastic competition for high school students with A, B, and C grade point averages. Competition consists of six written tests of academic strenth, three demonstrations of communication ability, and the Super Quiz. This year's Super Quiz topic was "Biotechnology: The Next Frontier." DHS placed 4th in theLarge School division in the area meet. Carrie Johnson was 1st in Economics and Fine Arts in the Honors Division. Kent Brammer was 1st in Math at the Varsity Level.

"The Environment" was the 1995 Super Bowl theme. It is a research based competition in which six squads with a maximum of five students each answer questions based on their subject areas. Before the area meet at North Side, preliminary meets were the Paul Harding Invitational and the NHC meet at Carrol, where they placed seventh.

Summer government classes visited the Superior and Circuit Courts, several county offices, and heard Senator Richard Worman speak on the legislative process in Indiana.



Seated in a circle for better communication, the Current Social Problems class discusses problems in the East Allen School District.



Videos are available on a wide variety of subjects that apply to Social Studies classes. Here, a class pays careful attention to one.

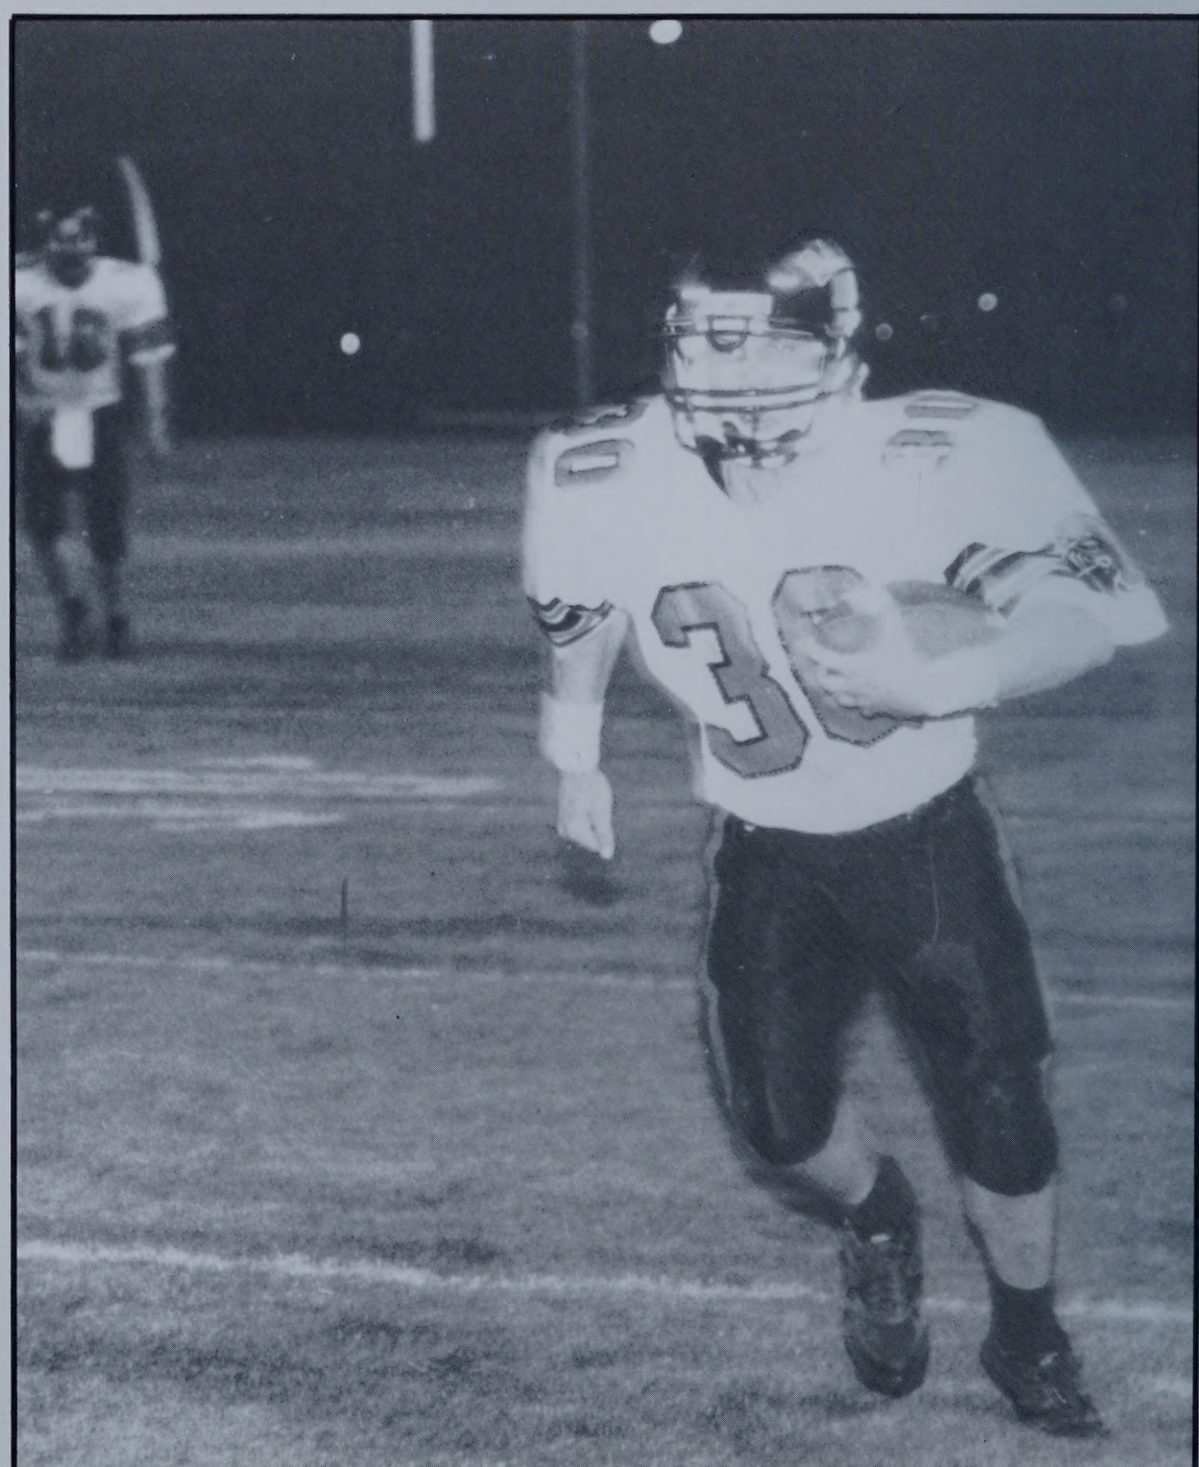
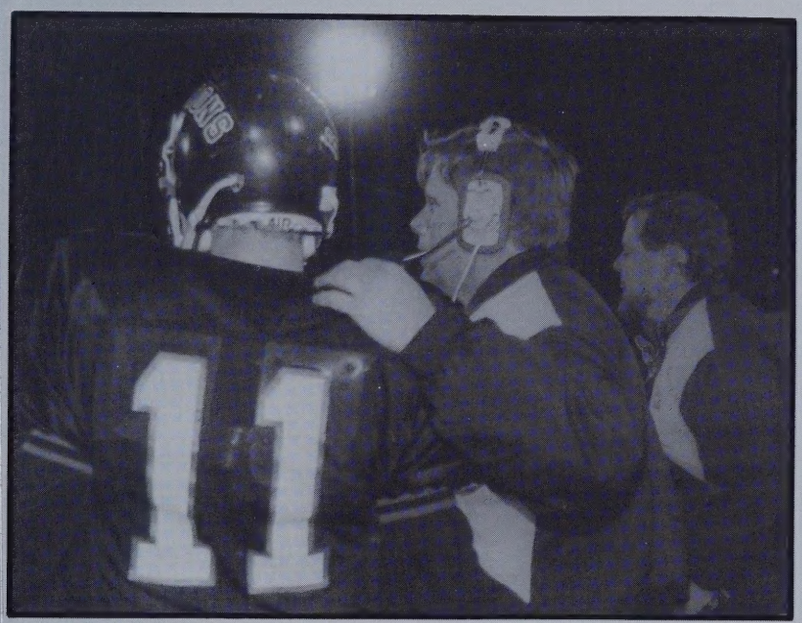
Accepting the congratulations of the IHSAA official, Logan Kempf shakes his hand and wishes for better results.

In a blur of speed, Matt Meyer heads up the field against Garrett. Meyer gained 1020 yards in 125 carries.



"Now here's what I want you to do!" Head Coach Ron Kock sends the next play in via Jeremy Pfister.

The agony of defeat can be seen on the faces of these disappointed Barons after accepting runner-up awards.



Disappointment in the Dome ---

13-1 Season Ends In Bittersweet Style

It was a year of records for the Barons, state finalists in Class 4A. The 97 points against New Haven was a record score and winning margin. Many individual season and career records were also set.

On offense, Brad Weber bassed for 2528 yards to become the career leading passer, with 6415 yards and 68 TD's. Winner of the Phil N. Eskew Mental Attitude Award, Weber completed 446 of his 836 career attempts.

Josh Barnett and Logan Kempf became the top two career receivers, with 1908 and 1052 yards respectively. Barnett had 26 career touchdowns.

Paul Wrona kicked 70 extra points and attempted 16 field goals. His longest field goal was for 47 yards.

The defense also had its stars. Adam Hissong had 185.2 tackles to become the leading career leader with 444.5 tackles. Matt Meyer tied school records with a 15 yard blocked punt return and a 90 yard run from scrimmage, both for TD's.

Adam Howerda had 11 interceptions to become the career leader with 15. Rich Zollman boasted a career high of 8 fumble recoveries, #1 in DHS history.

Although the team was disappointed in the final game, they certainly had a season to be proud of.

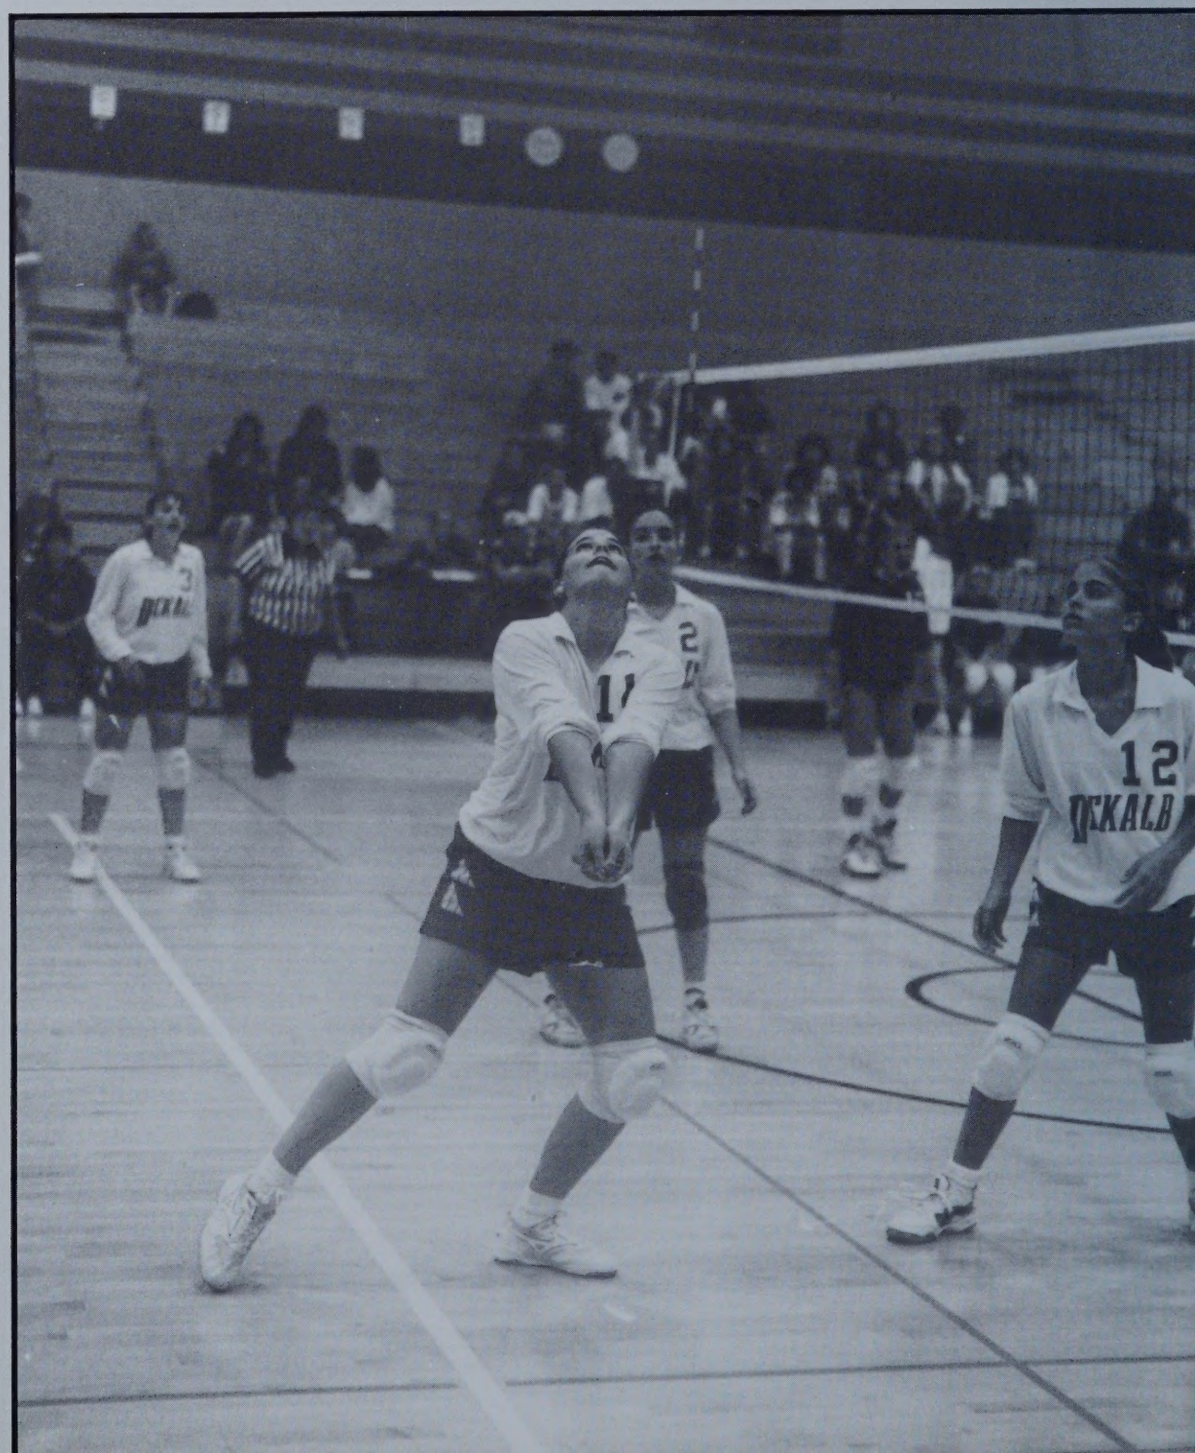
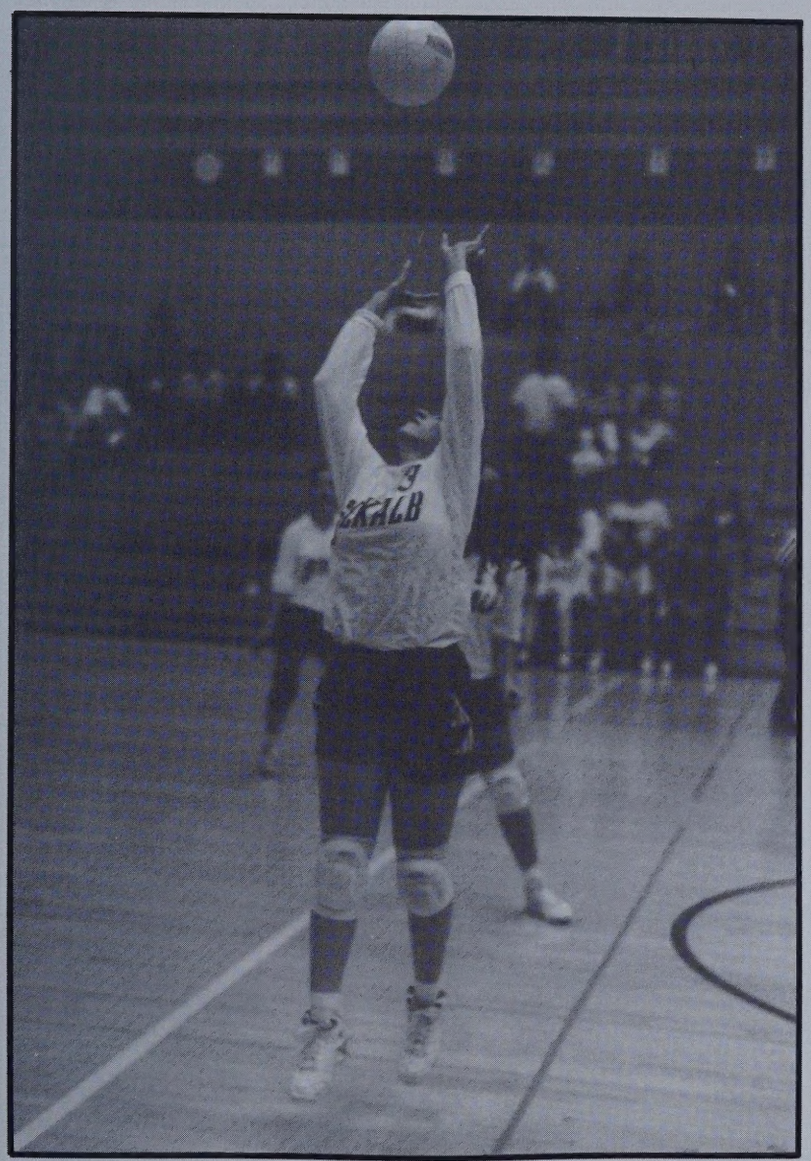
As Julie Brand, Megan Bosworth, and Nicki Stockamp watch, Taya Kretz passes the ball.

With the ball firmly tucked away, Dave Hildebrand, leading JV rusher, starts to head up the field.

Quarterbacking for the 7-1 freshmen is Matt Hawkins, who passed 47 times to gain 481 yards.



Gaining valuable experience on the freshman team, Julie Brand sets the ball for her teammates to return.



In Football, Volleyball---

Junior Varsity,Frosh Learn How To Win

Successful programs usually have successful feeder systems. That was the case for both football and volleyball.

Both the reserve and freshman football teams were NHC champs. The undefeated reserves were led by quarterback Jeremy Sassanella, who passed for over 1,000 yards. His leading receiver was Ryan Creager. Matt Ponko was the best offensive lineman.

Besides being the leading rusher, Dave Hildebrandt also was the defensive captain. Other defensive leaders were Rick Schoof and Matt McBride.

Losing just one game, the freshman football team had Jason Armstong as leading tackler and rusher. Chad Sunderland was the top receiver of Matt Hawkins' passes.

The reserve volleyballers were 16-10. Setters were Courtney Voelkel and Mandy Brand. Spiking duties were performed by Lisa Nguyen, Lisa Gurtner, Tami Roark, Mandy Dean, Jami Lee, and Rachel Smith. Back row specialists were Nannette Tatman and Jill Mossing.

The freshman volleyball team was 11-13. Leading hitter was Taya Kretz and top server was Abby Hege.Niki Stockamp and Julie Brand were the leading freshman setters.

Sectional Champions Again---

Sarah Levy Named First Team All-NHC

And the beat goes on... The volleyball team continued to build on the success of the past, compiling a 24-10 season record. They were the champions of theElmhurst Invitational and the IHSAA Sectional at Eastside.

They didn't fare quite so well in the Northeast Hoosier Conference, having a 4-3 record for fourth place behind Bellmont, Carroll, and Homestead, tied at 6-1. Named to the First Team in the NHC was Sarah Levy. Jenny Barnett and Meagan Bechdol received Second Team recognition.

Several players compiled some outstanding statistics. Sarah Levy had 191 kills, nearly twice as many as Meagan Bechdol (120) and Jenny Barnett (103) combined.

Leading by far in assists was junior setter Shannon O'Dell with 284. April Marshall chipped in with 146 assists.

Three players made significant contributions as dig leaders: Jenny Barnett (145), Meagan Bechdol (139), and Dawn Strawbridge (126).

The Barons had a balanced serving attack with four players having a nearly equal number of aces. Jenny Barnett and Dawn Strawbridge had 35, while Meagan Bechdol had 32 and Shannon Wolff, 31.

Don't they look happy? The whole team, coaches, and managers share the joy of a sectional victory.

Sarah Levy, whose 191 kills was the best on the team, hits the ball back to the Blazers in sectional action.

Ready and alert for whatever the opponent's server might do, the Barons prepare to go on the attack.

As Becky Albert (22) and Erin Carpenter watch, dig leader Jenny Barnett powers the ball back toward the net.

Regional Qualifiers---

'New Look' Girls Run With Spirit

1994 brought a new look to the girls' cross country squad. Returning only two varsity runners meant new roles for many individuals. The team managed to handle most opponents easily, earning a 7-2 record.

Jackie Foster was the lone senior on the squad. Her parting words to the team were," I cannot express how much I will miss the team. In all they do, I wish them the best of luck! Believe in what you do and you can keep the tradition alive!"

The Lady Barons performed in their season with lots of spirit. The main goal for them was to get to the state meet. They placed third in the Northeast Hoosier Conference. A week later, they had a dynamic race as they placed second in the IHSAA Sectional. Facing very tough competition at the Elkhart Regional, the ladies placed sixth to finish their season.

Kelly Henderson was the leader of the pack, with Katy McCanna not far behind. The two really worked together to help the team. Sarah DePew also helped earn the team a reputation for fearless competiton. Christine Schoudel, Jenni Gaff, Jackie Foster, Julie Behrman, and Rachel Miller gave all of their competitors some sweaty brows!

Concentrating on the course ahead, Sara DePew leads a pack of runners at the Manchester Invitational.

Senior Jackie Foster keeps her stride and breathing under control as she runs in the Snider Classic.

The scenic fall wonders of Bixler Lake surround Chris Schoudel as she nears the finish line in the NHC.

Markley, Wrona Earn All-NHC Honors

With a 13-4 record in dual matches, the tennis team proved that Baron Pride was alive on the courts. Shut out only twice, they managed to blank seven of their opponents. They were 5-2 in conference action, placing third in the NHC. They placed second to East Noble in the DeKalb Invitational.

Derek Markley had the team's best record of 18 wins and only 3 losses. He was the number one singles champion at the DeKalb Invitational. Markley finished his high school career by establishing a new school record of 75 career wins.

Versatile athlete Paul Wrona represented the Barons at number two singles, in addition to his kicking duties for the football team. As on the football field, Wrona had an outstanding year, posting seventeen wins while losing just four matches. Both Markley and Wrona were named to the All-NHC team.

Rounding out the singles at number three was Jeremy Grogg, whose 16-5 record was also very helpful for the team.

In doubles action, Kerry Vick and Brian Davis posted 15 wins and 6 losses, while Brad Henderson and Tim Culbertson saw most of the remaining doubles action.

Youth Gains Experience---

Winebrenner Wins Team-Medalist Honors

Youth and experience were combined on the girls' golf team. Unfortunately the youth outweighed the experience as the team worked its way to a two win and eleven loss record.

Taking part in two invitationals, the team placed fifth at Kokomo and thirteenth at the Northrop Invitational. In dual matches, their score of 204 against Homestead tied the Greenhurst course record for a Baron team.

Three team members had average scores in the 50's for nine holes. Sara Winebrenner led the way with a 52.5 average. She also posted the lowest scores for both nine and eighteen holes--46 and 100 respectively. Her 46 against Bellmont was just one stroke shy of the school record. She was team medalist twelve times and match medalist once.

Senior Lori Schrimshaw posted the second best average of 55.7. Her lowest nine hole score was 49, while her low eighteen hole score of 105 came in the sectional. Schrimshaw was team medalist four times.

The third best average of 57.5 was recorded by Erin Feller, whose 47 was the second lowest nine hole round of the year. She also was the team medalist four times and was one of two golfers to have a birdie.

NHC Champions---

Millers Lead Team In Promising Year

Featuring many underclassmen, the 1994 cross country team brought glimpses of what could become one of the strongest teams in Indiana.

Led on the course by Matt "Mutt" Miller, as Conference Champion, and off the course by Patrick "Pattimelt" Miller, the team won their third NHC championship in four years. Seniors on the team were Scott Armstrong, Bobby Long, and Emilio "Milo" Valdez.

The boys had an excellent 8-1 season in dual meets. They brought home the championship trophy for the Northeast Hoosier Conference, were third at the IHSAA Sectional, and were fifth at the Elkhart Regional.

Matt Miller led the team, having a season-best time of 15:52 at home against Carroll and Homestead. He was also a state-ranked freshman runner. Patrick Miller also had a good day against Carroll and Homestead, recording his season-best time of 16:12.

Andy Gaier, Patrick Miller, Brad Miller, and Kurt Pepple were a fabulous pack that grouped together well. The opponents also had reason to fear Aaron Ruse, Bobby Long, Eric Redmond, Nathan Diehl, Ronald Schiffli, Josh Shown, Scott Armstrong, and Emilio Valdez.

Team leader through most of the season, Matt Miller is watched by a spectator as he runs at Manchester.

Heading down the hill toward the finish line, hoping to pass a few more is Eric Redmond at Shoaff Park.

Helping the team toward a first place finish in the Northeast Hoosier Conference meet is Aaron Ruse.

Soccer Becomes Fall Sport---

Coulon, Wilson Lead Scoring With 27 Goals

It seemed like a short lay-off for the soccer team. Last year soccer was a spring sport and post-season play was limited to playing in the Summit City Soccer Conference tournament. This year soccer became a fall sport and the team took part in the IHSAA tourney. After defeating Westview by the score of 2-0, they lost to Hamilton by the same score in the sectional finals.

Finishing with an overall record of 5-10-2, the team had a 3-4 mark against Northeast Hoosier Conference foes for a sixth place finish behind league leading and 7-0 Homestead.

The team was shut out as many times (3) as they shut out the opponents, but allowed the opposition to score eight or more goals three times.

Christen Coulon and Jason Wilson combined to score 27 of the team's 36 goals. Individually Coulon had 15 and Wilson, 12. The team took a total of 189 shots on goal. Wilson was the team assist leader with seven.

The Barons did a good job of stealing the ball, recording 375 steals. Leading the team in this area was Tom Pittman with 72. Mitch Slone had 66 steals, while John McCart had 52. Goalie Jason Haiflich had 105 saves.

Cheerleaders Third In 1st-Ever NHC Meet

From their tryouts the previous spring, the cheerleaders knew they were in for a busy year ahead. Practices were held three times a week during the summer from 6 to 8 a.m.

During the summer they took part in competitions at the LaGrange County Fair and Madison County, as well as the State Fair.

In the first year of NHC cheerleader competition, the girls placed third behind Homestead and Carroll.

As both the fall and winter sports seasons got underway, the cheerleaders were very involved in promoting school spirit and getting the crowds to back the Barons.

Working the crowd at a home basketball game is reserve cheerleader Kourtney Deller.

With A Potent Offense---

Pfister, Recker Make Powerful 1-2 Punch

The season started slowly for the 14-9 Barons. The extended football season meant that several of the players had very limited practice time before the start of the season. It wasn't until after their loss to Bellmont in the opening round of the NHC tourney in January that they had an extended period of time to practice and determine their style of play. They were 9-3 from that point on.

The Barons were 5-2 in NHC action, tying for second place and also were sectional champs. The 101 points scored against Columbia City tied a school record and the 201 combined points scored in the Wayne game was also a record.

Leading scorers were Jeremy Pfister with 476 and Luke Recker with 444. Pfister hit 54 per cent of his shots and Nate Brown hit nearly 58 per cent, but the team leader was Kerry Vick at 62 per cent.

The two leading rebounders were Vick with 143 and Pfister with 138. Vick was the leading offensive rebounder with 69, while the defensive leader with 88 was Pfister.

Topping the assist list were Recker (88), Adam Holwerda (81), and Josh Barnett (79). Meanwhile, Recker's 64 steals was by far the tops on the team.

Long, Howard Lead Teams---

Top Scorers Provide Offense for JV's, Frosh

While the boys' varsity basketball t eam was experiencing success, the reserves and freshmen had mixed results. Often playing teams with much more experience, the junior varsity struggled through a 6-14 year, losing two of the three games that went into overtime. Eight of their fourteen losses were by six points or less.

Leading scorer for the JV was Jimmy Long with 197 points. Also seeing varsity action, Shane Monroe scored 151 points, shooting .611 from the field. Tyler Bunch chipped in for 133 points.

Four players had 70 or more rebounds: David Baughman (78), Long (77), and Monroe and Jan Thompson (73 each). Baughman shot .500 from the field while Matt Hawkins was close behind with .459.

Meanwhile, the freshmen were 15-4. Leading scorer was Andy Howard with 177 points. His best night was a 20 point effort against Garrett. Howard also was the leading three-point shooter with 17.

Also scoring well for the frosh were Josh Henderson with 126 points and Mike Presley with 113. Presley was the best free throw shooter, hitting 70 per cent. His top game was the 17 points scored vs. Dwenger.

In the Goshen game, junior varsity players David Baughman and Ryan Creager wait for the rebound.

Fourth Consecutive State Meet---

Record-Setting Year Ends Mitchell Era

All good things must come to an end, and so it was with Jaime Mitchell's years on the gymnastics team. Mitchell ended her four years in style, setting new individual records and helping to establish new team records.

New individual event records set by Mitchell include 9.30 on the vault vs. Huntington North, 8.90 on bars vs. Wawasee, 9.10 on beam vs. Huntington North, and 9.30 on floor against Snider and at Logansport.

Mitchell also won conference all-around with a record-breaking score of 36.05. Her high school career ended with her fourth consecutive trip to state, where she tied for tenth place in all-around.

Three new reserve records were set as well. Miranda Winebrenner scored 7.30 on bars against Homestead. Then Sommer Grogg broke that by scoring 7.65 on bars against Concordia. On vault, Kelly Rupert scored a record 8.20 against East Noble.

Mitchell wasn't the whole varsity, as can be seen from the fact that new team marks were set across the board. This includes vault (26.10), bars (25.05), beam (25.25), and floor (26.85). Although they didn't reach their goal of 100 total points, they came close at 99.05!

Ending her high school career with a tenth place at state, Jaime Mitchell (top) works on the bars.

Uehlein Is Sixth Baron in State Finals

Chad Uehlein becoming only the sixth Baron to make it to the state meet was a highlight of the wrestling season. The team had an 11-8 record, scoring 628 points to the opponents' 615. The junior varsity team experienced a 4-9-1 record for the year.

Senior Chad Uehlein, at 106 pounds, had several of the season records for the team. His 30-5 won-loss record and 410 points scored were tops. Uehlein tied Gus Stackhouse (185#) for the fastest fall in 12 seconds. James DeWitt (134#) tied Uehlein for the most falls with 10.

Uehlein also had the most take-downs (61), reversals (20), 2-point nearfalls (19), and 3-point nearfalls (22). He placed first at East Noble, the NHC, and at the Carroll Sectional and Regional.

James DeWitt made it to semistate after placing first in the sectional and second in the regional. DeWitt had the most escapes with 35. Chad Buchs had the most decisions (15) as part of his 23-8 season record.

On the junior varsity level, Steve DeWitt led with his 12-5 record. He scored 230 points. Brad Roller (10-6) had the fastest fall in 22 seconds and the most 3-point nearfalls with seven.

State finalist Chad Uehlein seems determined that his opponent will soon be on his back.

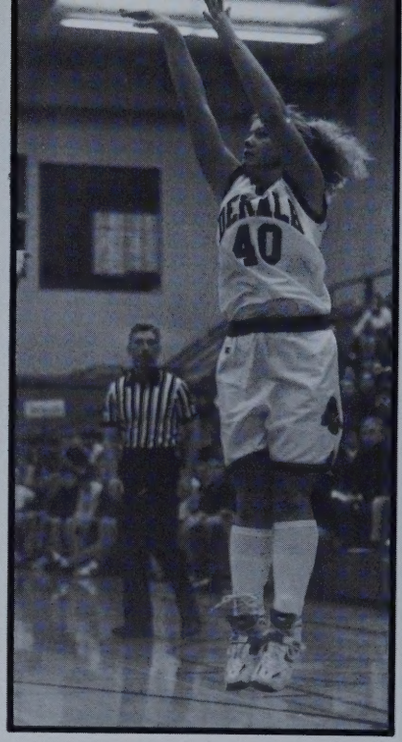
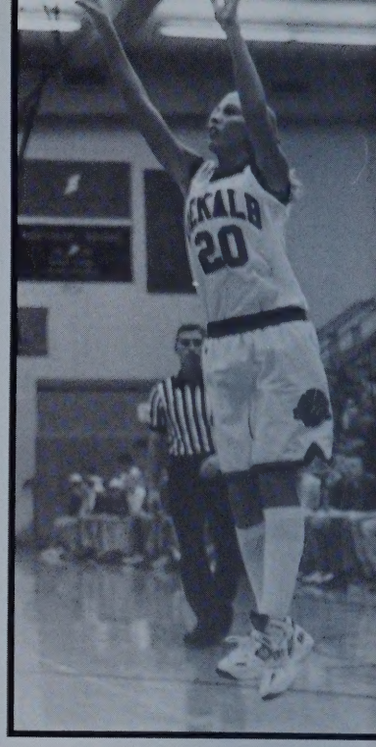
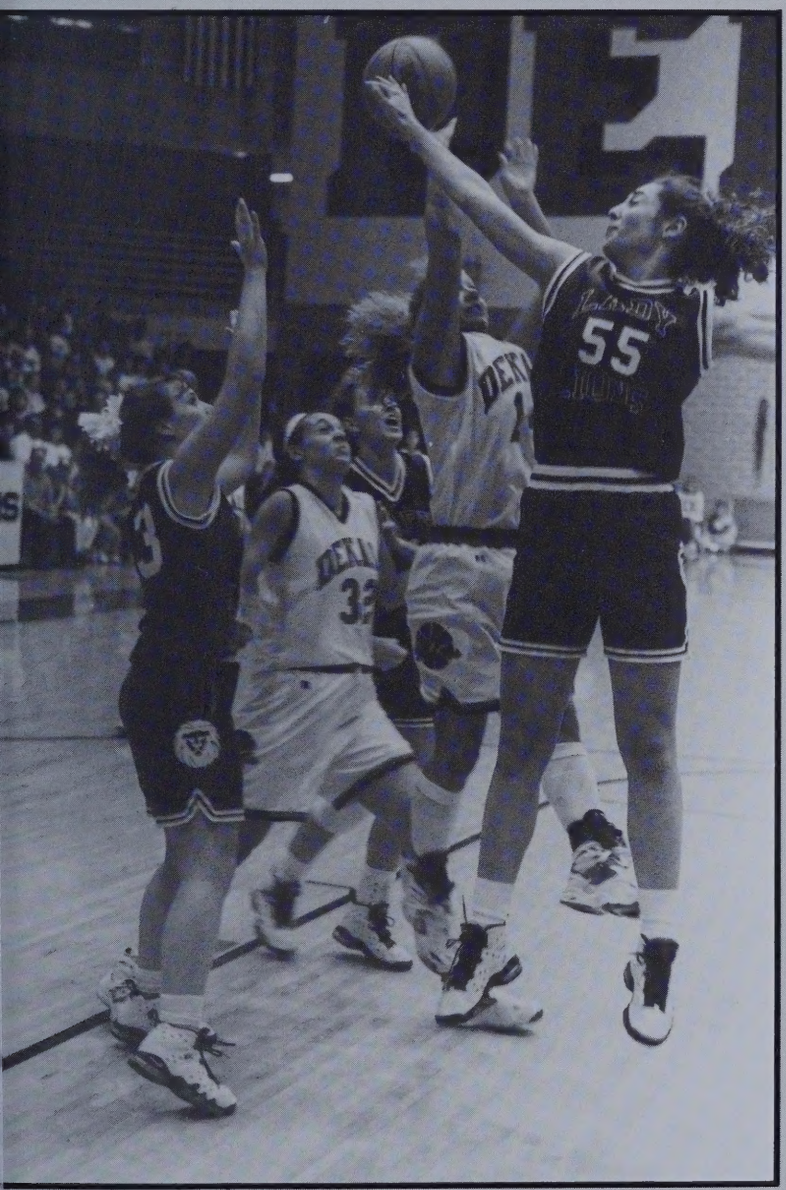
Taking nearly identical jump shots in the regional against Leo are April Marshall (40) and Dawn Howard (20).

Playing Leo at home early in the season, Jenny Barnett tries desperately to pass the ball for an assist.







Yea! We won! The Barons seem elated to display the trophy they just won in the Garrett sectional (top).

As Sarah Levy works her way in for a possible rebound, Jenny Barnett tries for an inside shot.

Finishing With 11-2 Run---

Regional Qualifiers Overcome Bad Start

Things were looking bad for the Lady Baron basketball team after they lost three of their first four games, but they finally got on the winning track and lost only two of their last thirteen games, ending with a 15-8 record and the Sectional championship. They were 6-1 in the Northeast Hoosier Conference.

Scoring an average of 50.4 points per game, they held the opposition to 43.7 per game. The Barons outshot their opponents 38.6% to 31.4% from the field, with Sarah Levy (52.6) and Julie Conrad (49.4) posting the top two averages. Mandy Dean (61.5%) and April Marshall (60.3%) were the best two from the line.

Three seniors led the scoring parade, accounting for 792 of the team's 1159 total points. They were Julie Conrad (311 points), Sarah Levy (261 points) and Jenny Barnett (220 points). They were all helped by Dawn Howard, the assist leader, with 149 total assists for an average of 6.5 per game.

The Lady Barons outrebounded their opponents 849 to 633, with Sarah Levy being the team leader with 229, averaging ten rebounds per game. April Marshall topped the list in steals with 76 for the season.

Reserves, Freshmen Post Winning Seasons

The girls' basketball program was successful on all levels. The reserves had a 9-7 record, losing both games that went into overtime--against Norwell and Carroll. They were 4-3 in conference play and won the holiday tournament.

Leading the JV's with 108 points was Sarah Underhill. Deidri Tompkins was assist leader, while Rashell Jordan was the top rebounder. Mandy Dean and Underhill had the two best free throw averages, 78.8 % and 63.6%.

The freshmen, 10-3 overall, lost their only overtime game--against the freshman team from Snider. In conference games they were 6-1.

It seems as if the defender from the Angola freshman team can do little to stop Rachel Smith's shot.

The JV's best free throw shooter, Mandy Dean (50) tries her hand at another kind of shot.

Junior pitching ace Lori Pfister watches as the ball crosses the plate. She struck out 92 batters.

Is that a sign that Coach Rick Getts is giving as Mandy Dean faces the pitcher hoping to hit and not be hit?

Before the next inning gets under way, the infield meets with the pitcher and catcher to encourage each other.

Alert for a grounder coming her way, third baseman Carrie Akey is part of the strong Baron infield.

After a Poor Start---

Team Is Undefeated In Conference Play

The softball team got itself off to a horrible start, losing five of its first six games, but things did improve as the season continued. As a matter of fact, they ended up as champions of the NHC, going undefeated in all seven conference games.

The points the team earned for this championship helped DHS place second in the All-Activities race in the NHC with 131.5 points. Homestead had 133.83 points.

Things didn't go as well for the team in the sectional. Drawing a bye, they beat Leo 7-2 in the semi-finals, but were held scoreless by Eastside in the finals, only the third game all year that any Baron failed to score.

Of the regular players, three had outstanding batting averages: Carrie Akey (.521), Jenny Barnett (.486), and April Marshall (.472). Also hitting well were Teresa Glick (.382) and Lori Pfister (.379). Barnett was the home run leader with three. She also led the team in RBI's with 27. Getting the "good eye" award was Teresa Glick, who drew 15 bases on balls.

Carrying most of the pitching load was Lori Pfister, who faced 567 batters in nearly 120 innings. She struck out 92 and walked 55 on her way to posting a 2.223 ERA.

As the Garrett players are ready to field the ball, Chris Corey hopes she'll be able to beat it out.

Pat Miller Sixth in State---

Sectional Champs Pile Up The Points

A winning season was capped off by the boys' track team becoming sectional champions and having one member of the team advancing to the state meet.

At the state meet, Patrick Miller had his best 800 meter race of the year at 1:55.39 for sixth place, bettering his regional time of 1:57.31. Others scoring points at the regional were Ryan Carper and Rick Schoof (pole vault), both relay teams, Matt Miller (1600 meters), Scott Schwab (discus), and Nick Tarlton (200 meters).

Sectional champions included Ryan Carper in pole vault (12'6"); the 400 meter relay team of Tyson Handshoe, Kyle Leins, Matt Meyer, and Nick Tarlton; and the 1600 meter relay team of Ryan Creager, Matt Meyer, Brad Miller, and Pat Miller.

Placing second in the NHC meet, the Barons had three conference champs: the 400 meter and 1600 meter relay teams and Kyle Leins in the 100 meters.

Nick Tarlton scored the most during the season for the Barons with 124.25 points. Of the 43 events in which he placed, 17 were for first and 17 were for second place.

The team's depth was obvious in the results recorded by the junior varsity team.

Competing at the East Noble Relays, Ryan Creager takes the handoff from Brad Miller in the 4x400.

Up, up, and away goes Rick Schoof in the pole vault. He cleared 13 feet three times during the season.

It's a struggle as Nick Tarlton and Brent Burniston of Garrett near the finish line in the 100 meters.

Rounding the curve together in the 3200 meter race are distance men Kurt Pepple and Nathan Diehl.

Sectional Champs Again---

Cool Spring Weather Cramps Their Style

The sectional crown again was placed upon the heads of the tennis team, but once again they fell in the opening round of the regional, this time to host Elkhart Central 5-0. Plagued by cold and damp weather all spring, the girls had to face their hard-hitting opponents indoors, which only magnified their power.

Finishing the season at 11-6, the Barons achieved their sectional championship on their home courts, since host Angola's courts were undergoing repair. They defeated Lakeland 5-0 and Angola 4-1.

Winning season records were recorded by Emily Roberts, at number one singles (13-10), and number three singles Ann Dendinger (17-6). The doubles teams of Somer Anderson and Dawn Strawbridge, at number one, and Abby Horrom and Melissa Koehl, at number two, had identical records of 15-8. Playing at number two singles, Sarah Jobe had a 7-13 year.

The Barons, with their record of 5-2, placed third in the conference behind state runner-up Homestead and East Noble. Emily Roberts and the Anderson/Strawbridge doubles team were named to the second team in the Northeast Hoosier Conference.

Team Wins 11 Matches; Falls Short In Sectional

The 1995 boys' golf team started their season with high hopes, wanting to do well in retiring Coach Russ Smith's final year. They did have an outstanding dual meet record, winning eleven matches and losing only to conference foes East Noble and Norwell.

When it came to the eighteen hole tournaments, they finished first only once, winning their own eight-team Invitational. Their worst finish came at the most inopportune time--in the sectional, finishing fourth when only the top three teams could advance.

Ben Armstrong had the best average at 38.69, with his lowest score being 35. Having two 35's was Jonathan Worthington, with an average of 40.46. Matt Haiflich and Jason Magnuson had identical 40.85 averages.

Andy McComb shot a 75 twice in invitationals and was the low Baron in the sectional with his 77. Other sectional scores were Ben Armstrong (78), Jonathan Worthington (79),Jason Magnuson (81), and Matt Haiflich (82).

The reserve golfers had a 10-1 year, seven times being good enough to have defeated the other team's varsity. Josh Leslie, Shannon Meyer, and Brandon Blackwell led the reserves.

Team Third in Sectional---

Kelly Rupert Advances To State In High Jump

At first glance, a team that finished its season with a record of 3 wins and 6 losses would not seem to have accomplished much, but the girls' track team did have its moments of glory. In a dual meet, they defeated state-ranked conference rival East Noble by the score of 61 to 57.

One member of the team, Kelly Rupert advanced to the state meet in the high jump. Rupert's best jump of the season was for 5'5" recorded at the state meet for tenth place. Being the team's high point earner for the season, Rupert also finished first in long jump six times, with her best leap of 15'10.75" coming in the regular season meet vs. East Noble.

Second in points scored for the season was Shannon Wolff, whose specialty was the sprints, including one leg of the 4x100 relay. The versatile Janet Kiefer competed in discus, shot put, the 400 meter dash, and one leg of the 4x400 relay. Kiefer was the team's third top point earner for the season.

Also scoring well to contribute to the team's total points were Katy McCanna in distance events, Stacy Leins in sprints, Julie Conrad in throwing, and Dawn Wright in hurdles. Seventeen team members earned varsity letters.

Ranked 14th in the State---

Baron Bats Boom As Team Goes 23-7

The Barons were hoping for a rematch with Concordia in the Regional finals, but it didn't happen, perhaps because of a controversial call on a catch (or non-catch) in the outfield. Nevertheless, the Barons had a good season, being Conference Co-champs, Sectional Champs, and rising to 14th ranking in the state.

Although outfielder and relief pitcher Brad Weber drew much of the attention, he was not the whole team. Besides Weber's .486, Jeremy Sassanella batted .362 and Joey Nack hit .340. The team's average was .320. Weber had 11 homers and Damian Dunn, 7. Every starter in the line-up hit at least one home run during the season.

The Baron pitchers had a combined 2.821 ERA. Starter Chris Bloom (8-1) had a 2.170 ERA and Josh Barnett's record was 7-4, with a 2.50 ERA. Relief pitcher Jon Michael Williams (1-0) had 5 saves and Weber (2-1) had 2 saves and a 2.014 ERA.

The reserve team also did well with its 15-4 record. For those who batted over 40 times, averages were Chad Bell (.423),Pat Pettyjohn (.383), Ryan Elliott (.373), and Seth Harp (.370). The entire team had a .282 average.

Thanks to All!

The staff of the 1995 SABER would like to thank all of those people who helped us in the production of this yearbook. This includes the generous businesses and other sponsors who helped financially. Senior portraits were taken by Studio One. The underclassmen were photographed by Lifetouch National School Studios. Mr. Mark Childs of Jostens Printing and Publishing Division was there with the answers when we really needed them. The 1995 SABER is 9 x 12 and contains 212 pages. The cover and endsheets were designed by the staff. Most of the body copy, captions, and headlines were produced by the staff using desktop publishing. The major typeface used was Times Roman.
